All-Out Battle Explodes in Congo

Martial Law Declared

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI) — The battle for Elisabethville exploded into all-out war yesterday with casualties estimated in excess of 1,000. The United Nations declared martial law and announced that any unauthorized civilians bearing arms would be executed.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe vowed a war to the death but the UN-controlled Radio Katanga said last night he was on his way to talk with Concor O'Brien, UN civilian chief here, on the deteriorating situation.

PLANES SENT

Both Tshombe and O'Brien have tried in the past to reach a cease-fire and save the deteriorating situation.

In the meantime Tshombe sent planes and armored cars against United Nations troops in Elisabethville, Jadotville, 65 miles to the northwest, and Kamina airfield in Northern Katanga. The United Nations sent out urgent calls for reinforcements.

In Stockholm, the Swedish defence ministry reported its troops at Kamina were attacked by a heavily-armed unit.

Shocked Ireland May Pull Troops

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish Premier Sean Lemass indicated last night that Irish troops may be pulled out of The Congo.

Lemass sent Frank Aiken, minister for external affairs, to Katanga to investigate the situation. There was increasing anxiety here as reports continued of Irish troops being involved in heavy fighting with several casualties.

TO KEEP ORDER

The Katanga issue was expected to play a leading part in the campaign for national elections Oct. 4. The campaign opens today.

Lemass said Ireland's 1,000 soldiers in The Congo were not sent to the United Nations force "to impose any particular solution on The Congo. They were sent on the understanding that the function of the force would be to preserve order," he said.

REPORT AWAITED

But the premier said any decision on the future of the Irish troops would have to wait the report of Aiken and a UN statement requested by Ireland on the background of the Katanga fighting.

Offensive Forecast

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Rhodesian Federal Prime Minister Roy Welensky Friday predicted an all-out offensive by the United Nations in Katanga within the next 24 hours because the UN's reputation "is at stake."

Welensky, denouncing the "brutal and bitter" force used by the UN, called for an immediate cease-fire and a commission of inquiry.

UN Official's Recall Demanded in Dublin

DUBLIN (UPI) — Recall of Ireland's Concor O'Brien, UN official involved in the Congo fighting was demanded here by Senator Patrick Quinlan.

He told Premier Sean Lemass Irish blood was being spilled to bring "Catholic Katanga under the heel of the pink regime in Leopoldville," and accused O'Brien of using "Black and Tan" methods in Katanga.

Nancy Rips Japan U.S. Eyes Esther

TOKYO (Reuters) — First onslaugth of Typhoon Nancy lashed Japan's southern island Friday, leaving four persons dead, 11 missing and 48 injured. A Greek freighter with 29 aboard was adrift in the typhoon's centre.

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. scientists may make weather history against huge Hurricane Esther, now 1,000 miles away. They'll seed Esther with ice-producing chemicals, killing its heat energy and 150-miles-an-hour winds.

America Detonates Fallout-Free Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States resumed nuclear weapons tests after a 34½-month lapse yesterday with a low-power, fallout-free underground shot at the Nevada proving ground.

The shot signalled the beginning of a new phase of the free world's atomic arms race with Russia.

VAIN ATTEMPT

Experts said yesterday's test was designed to perfect small battlefield weapons against an enemy's troops rather than its cities. Among such weapons is the army's bazooka, like Davy Crockett, which had never been proof-tested.

It was the first U.S. atomic explosion since Oct. 30, 1958.

The U.S. has spent the years since then in a vain attempt to obtain an enforceable international ban against all nuclear weapons tests.

Britain Backs Blasts

LONDON (UPI) — The foreign office said last night that Britain "fully supports" the resumption of underground nuclear testing by the United States.

It said the U.S. "could obviously not ignore large scale resumption by the Russians of nuclear testing."

The Nevada explosion, set off in a shot chamber deep in a mesa of volcanic rock, came 14 days after the Russians abruptly resumed fallout-producing atmospheric tests of vastly larger weapons.

It also came just 10 days after President Kennedy announced the Soviet action would force the U.S. to resume development of nuclear arms.

TEST BAN URGED

In his announcement of the test, Kennedy again called on the Russians to negotiate a new test ban agreement.

The president said the shot was designed to "strengthen the defence of the free world."

He said the shot would not pollute the atmosphere with radioactivity, as the Soviet explosions do.

WE'LL USE FORCE KENNEDY WARNS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Friday the United States is "prepared to meet force with force" if necessary to save the freedom of West Berlin.

Power Suit Seen

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reports here Friday said British Columbia Power Corp. Ltd. plans a suit against the provincial government in connection with the takeover of its operating subsidiary, British Columbia Electric Co. Ltd.

The government took over B.C. Electric Aug. 1, setting a price of $38 on common shares, all held by the parent company.

CHOICE GIVEN

It also offered holders of preferred shares the choice of exchanging them for perpetual or 25-year provincial bonds.

The corporation must first seek a provincial government decree before it can take its case against the crown into court.

MEETING DENIED

A power corporation spokesman confirmed that B.C. Power is considering legal action but he denied that A. Bruce Robertson, chairman of the corporation board, had met with Premier Bennett seeking increased compensation for the B.C. Electric common stock.

The reports say the decision to sue is believed to have been made after discussion between Mr. Robertson and cabinet members over increased compensation broke down.

Replying to a plea from non-aligned countries for a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting to solve the mounting Berlin crisis, the president held the door open for a summit conference provided careful advance preparations show it would have "a reasonable chance of success."

MOST FORTHRIGHT

But "we do not intend to enter into negotiations under ultimatums or threats," he said. The White House issued Kennedy's statement—his most forthright yet on U.S. fight-if-necessary determination—as the Big Four Western foreign ministers held the second round in a three-day Berlin strategy conference ending today.

MINISTERS MEET

Dean Rusk, Britain's Lord Home, France's Couve de Murville and West Germany's Von Brentano spent a total of 4½ hours in discussions at the state department morning and afternoon.

IN OCTOBER?

The Western policymakers were reported to have agreed that an East-West foreign ministers' conference on Berlin should be held in October or November should Rusk get promising results from his New York meeting next week with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

TO STAND PAT

But if Rusk gets no clue from Gromyko that the Communists will offer something the West can negotiate on, then the Western powers were described as prepared to stand fast on Berlin without East-West talks—come what may.

TO NET GROUNDWORK

If the East-West foreign ministers' conference does come about, this was seen as possibly setting the groundwork for a later meeting between Khrushchev and the Western government heads.

Informants said Couve de Murville retained France's coolness toward any hurry-up approach to East-West negotiations but did not object to Rusk's sounding out of Gromyko on his own.

BERLIN DISCUSSED

Official sources said the Western policymakers concentrated on counter-measures to be taken against any further Communist move against West Berlin.

Bomb Sent To Adenauer

BONN, Germany (AP) — German security officials yesterday intercepted a bomb in a package addressed to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The government said the package contained an explosive wired to batteries. The bomb was rigged to detonate upon opening of the wrappings.

Arrest, Deportation Face East Germans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials reported yesterday that the United States has received information the East German Communist regime is planning "the arrest and mass deportation" of Germans living along the Communist side of the Berlin and East German boundaries.

Air Incidents Raise Tension In West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Concern rose yesterday over use of the vital Western airlifts to Berlin after two West German fighters blundered into the city and Soviet MIG jets shadowed two U.S. commercial airliners.

Communist East Germany called the landing of the two West German F-34 jet fighters "a monstrously provocative act." In a statement, the East Germans charged the two pilots were on a spying mission.

PROTEST FILED

At about the same time, the American airliners flying from Berlin to Hamburg were either shadowed or buzzed by Soviet MIG jet fighters. The United States filed a vigorous protest with the Soviet representative at the Berlin Air Safety Centre.

CASE DISCUSSED

The case of the two West German pilots, who said they lost their way on a training mission and landed at Tegel airport, also was discussed at the Air Safety Centre. This is one of the few remaining occupation establishments in which the Russians still co-operate.

After a three-hour meeting, an Allied officer said "there is nothing to worry about."

Teachers Won't Ask For More

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's teachers will not be seeking general salary increases this year and will not ask for more money to compensate for the longer school day, Kenneth Altchison, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, said Friday.

The federation does not set salary policy for teachers. Each local teachers' association determines its own demands.

"Teachers regard the present economic situation as a plateau period," Mr. Altchison said.

Trade Howls Get Results

LONDON (UPI) — The Economist says the "loud cries" at the Commonwealth finance ministers conference in Accra over Britain's decision to apply for Common Market membership should be taken as "a preliminary to serious horse trading."

The London weekly adds "the loud cries of anguish have their part in settling the stage for the detailed bargaining ahead."

"When the Canadian ministers decide that Britain will find it against its own interest to join the Common Market, and shouldn't be tempted away because it would be unfair to the Commonwealth, their protests should be taken as a routine move in raising their initial bargaining bid."

ACCRA (Reuters) — British treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd said, Friday night Britain's entry into the Common Market depends on receiving guarantees in the interest of the Commonwealth.

War Scare Puts Families to Flight

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — A group of nuclear war scare refugees from the New York metropolitan area will begin their journey to California today as scheduled despite the fact their chosen small town sanctuary has been dubbed a "prime target" by one civil defence official.

Alvin Bauman, spokesman of the group of 20 families, said they "knew all along" that a Titan intercontinental missile base was being built near Chico, Calif., the spot they picked to escape blast and fallout in case of nuclear attack.

"Of course, Chico would have been more attractive from our point of view if it didn't have the Titan base," Bauman said. "We took it into consideration in our planning."

But Bauman said he disagreed with Ed Lewis, information director for the California disaster office, in his evaluation of Chico as a "prime target."

"It's all relative," Bauman said. "And relative to the New York area, Chico is safer."

Bauman said the 20 families included about 30 men, women and children. About five families will leave with him by car today for Chico and the rest will join them there later. They already have leased 12 homes in Chico.

Artists, teachers and businessmen are represented in the group. Bauman said "a few" of the refugees lean toward Zen Buddhism and have adopted certain dietary habits prescribed by the Japanese school of Dr. George Ohsawa.

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI)—Insurance experts estimate that hurricane Carla dealt a blow of some $300,000,000 along the Texas Gulf Coast, less than a third of it covered by insurance.

Carla's death list now stands at 40 in four states.

Briton Blames UN Brutality For 'Hate City'

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—A white businessman who fled Elisabethville said today he left behind a "city of hate" ruled by UN terror and filled with corpses.

Refugees Bombed In Congo

Reports reaching Elisabethville, said 57 Irish UN soldiers defending the industrial city of Jadotville had been killed and that the remainder of the 155-man contingent were being held as hostages. The Katangese threatened to kill 10 Irishmen for each Katangese executed.

O'Brien placed Katangese dead at more than 200 with at least another 500 wounded and 200 captured. He put UN casualties at "six or seven" dead and another 27 wounded—not including Jadotville.

"We are most seriously concerned about the company at Jadotville," he said. "They have been under bombing and mortar attacks for days and I fear they are suffering heavy casualties."

Many refugees were feared killed when a French-built jet fighter bombed and strafed a refugee camp outside Elisabethville.

The plane also dropped a bomb near O'Brien's house, bombed and strafed the airport control tower at Kamina and Elisabethville and strafed persons boarding a plane at Kamina, killing a number of them.

YASSIADA, Turkey

(AP) — Turkey's ruling military junta yesterday upheld the death sentences handed down to ex-premier Adnan Menderes and two former cabinet ministers for violating the nation's constitution in 10 years of dictatorial rule.

The 22-man junta, however, commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences against former president Celal Bayar and 12 other ex-officials.

SUDDEN COLLAPSE

Menderes, who suffered a mysterious collapse only hours before he was sentenced, will be executed when his physical condition improves, a junta communique said.

His two condemned co-defendants, former foreign minister Fatih Rustu Zorlu and ex-finance minister Hasan Polatkan, will be hanged soon.

SAVED BY AGE

A junta spokesman said the 77-year-old Bayar was given life imprisonment because of his age.

The junta announced its decision shortly after a three-hour meeting in Ankara to review the sentences handed down by the court on this Marmara Sea island.

Bias-Hating Ministers Jailed

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—son-in-law of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and 14 other clergymen, three of them Negroes, were sentenced to four months in jail Friday for attempting to dine together in a segregated restaurant.

In New York, a spokesman for Rockefeller said the governor would not interfere in any way in the case of his son-in-law, Rev. Robert Pierson, husband of Rockefeller's daughter Anne.

"He" was aware of the consequences would be what they were today," the spokesman said. "The governor feels that they were entitled to do what they did and will not interfere."

Judge James Spencer, himself an Episcopalian, ordered a jail sentence and $200 fine for each minister after a two-hour trial in which assistant city attorney Robert Nichols, also an Episcopalian, served as prosecutor.

Spencer said it was "especially grievous" for him to pass the sentences because the defendants were ministers of his church. However, the judge said he believed they had not only violated Mississippi law but also "the articles of religion of my faith" by refusing to obey civil authority.

The minister plan appeals but none was released on bond immediately. They said some may decide to serve out their sentences.

In Montgomery, Ala., Rev. William Coffin, chaplain of Yale University, and 10 others went on trial as "freedom riders" and police witnesses testified their arrest averted a riot, as did police in the Jackson trial.

Of Love Unrequited and The Daffodil

According to one ancient legend today's lovely daffodil is the result of love unrequited.

Echo, a sweet mountain nymph, spied the beautiful demi-god Narcissus, and fell deeply in love with him. But Narcissus had already fallen in love with his own image and had eyes only for himself. And so poor Echo eventually wasted away to nothing but a voice.

Angered over Echo's fate, Nemesis the Goddess of Vengeance, transformed Narcissus into a flower — doomed to stand for eternity nodding at its image in clear waters. (Narcissus is the botanical name for daffodil.)

While its origins may be dim, the daffodil's recent history is clear. Dutch plant breeders have been cultivating thousands of flowering bulbs for some four centuries — including the daffodil, tulip, hyacinth, crocus and many more. Their intensive research and devotion results in the finest bulbs available anywhere in the world. Bred, grown and exported under the strictest controls, the Dutch bulb can never leave home unless it is certified of proper flowering size, completely sound and free of pests and disease.

As a result, daffodil bulbs from Holland will flower almost anywhere — particularly in problem areas where other floral growth is inhibited or difficult. Just dig a hole, drop in the bulb, cover it and walk away.

There's nothing more for you to do until Spring, when you might pick a blossom to brighten a room, a home, or the face of someone dear to you. One thing is certain: if the bulbs say "Imported from Holland" — you can't buy anything better.

The Centennial Project

MEMBERS of Victoria's centennial project committee may be disappointed that city council did not seize upon their proposals with cries of joy and hasten to endorse them. Council, however, would have failed in its duty if it had done so.

Certainly citizens will hope that the three-phase project recommended by the committee will not fade away as the result of faint-hearted indecision or quibbling. But there is much that must be realistically considered by the aldermen before they can properly say aye or nay to endorsing the proposals.

The centennial planners have suggested that a new city hall be built at a cost of $1,200,000, with space for the Greater Victoria school board, on Blanshard between Courtney and Burdett; that a $400,000 centennial park and square be created in the "civic precinct" on Cathedral Hill, and that Craigdarroch Castle, when vacated by the school board, become a tourist attraction in the form of civic archives.

That Victoria needs a new city hall is well established. And a new city hall of lasting dignity and beauty, facing a park-like area containing the new law courts, the cathedral and a new YM-YWCA building, would undoubtedly be a fitting symbol of the city's pride in its past and faith in the future.

But council can hardly endorse the proposal and take it to the ratepayers without first finding out, with some certainty, whether or not the school board would be willing and able to join in the construction of a new city hall; whether or not the provincial government would contribute to the acquisition and improvement of the lands in the precinct; whether or not the possibility remains that the B.C. Power Commission building, itself on the edge of the precinct, will be vacated by the commission and can be acquired as a city hall at considerably less cost than a new building, and whether or not such a saving would justify second-best.

It seems a pity that centennial planning did not begin sooner. If it had, the answer to these questions probably would have been forthcoming with a more comfortable margin of time before the beginning of the century.

Misleading Signals

RECURRENTLY, there are complaints about some of Victoria's more complicated traffic signals. They come as might be expected mainly from visitors and the newly-arrived in the city: sooner or later, most residents discover from experience and sometimes shocking experience how the signals work. But we value our visitors in Victoria. Would it not be worth the trouble to make the complicated signals more instantly understandable?

Would it not help, for instance, to label the signals at the Government-Belleville, Government-Humboldt and Douglas-Humboldt intersections, "Three direction phases. Wait for green," with attention-focusing suspended signs? The motorist's natural inclination at an intersection, had as the habit may be, is to start forward when the traffic facing him starts forward. At these intersections, to do so is usually hazardous, and at least it invites anger and embarrassment.

For the same reason, at intersections where motorists proceeding in one direction are given an "advance green"—not too informative a phrase—to make a left-turn, the drivers proceeding in the opposite direction could well be advised by signs of the situation. Granted, it is difficult for the traffic authorities to say in four or five words that the traffic across the road is given a ten-second lead-off. But merely the words, "Wait for green!" surely would suffice to put most drivers on their guard.

Victoria's "Walk" and "Don't Walk" signs also leave much to be desired, and only at the Yates and Douglas scramble crossing is the fault largely attributable to pedestrians' inclination to do what others are doing. These signals no doubt are of standard design. But whoever designed them must have imagined a city where all streets were narrow and all eyes were young and sharp. It is quite obvious that some pedestrians do not even see them, let alone being able to read them. Are they the biggest and brightest available?

The Green Menace

IN THESE dwindling mist-touched days of summer, a green menace hangs over Victoria; over the zinnias and the petunias that never did turn out quite as well as expected, over our neighbors' still flourishing and abundant zinnias and petunias; over the grass gone toasty brown and toasty crunchy, over our neighbors' verdant and velvety lawns.

Soon the menace will descend, no longer green but brown: millions of oak leaves, tons of oak leaves, to cover the lawns, clog the gutters, wedge themselves into the rockeries, tuck themselves behind thorn-bushes, turn the fishpond into clammy, turbid soup. What can we do about them? Rake them and burn them—or watch the merry wind and the merry children and the merry dogs redistribute them. Rake them and try to prevent the like the invigorating exercise in the crisp air, the sore back, the twisted wrist and all. Rake them and wait—only about three years—for them to turn into compost.

In some eastern cities where leaves are mostly soft, fragile things, the parks department will cart them away and bring back, in short order, a bag or two of compost. Not here, under the sturdy oaks.

Then there is a book available in town, which gives a recipe for oak-leaf wine: almost all one needs to beat the menace of the fall is a passion for wine, an indifference to loopers in the brew, as many tons of sugar as there are nuts of fresh green leaves and the fortitude to endure the summer's tumbles from the trees and what the neighbors say. Not many seem to have tried it.

What Victoria needs is an enterprising industrialist who will find a way to turn oak leaves into strong, durable, attractive, economical wallboard, driving the price of leaves from far below zero to fifty cents a bushel.

It's too late for this year. The fallout is about to begin. But while we rake through October and half of November, waiting for that last stubborn batch to come down, we can dream.

Dangerous Intervention

IN one country after another

In recent years the intervention of the military in politics has had disastrous consequences. Military men stepping out of their proper sphere have almost invariably come to grief and more often than not they have brought calamity to the peoples they were supposedly bent on saving.

For this reason it is for no other it is hard to understand what is motivating Senator J. Strom Thurmond in his crusade in behalf of high-ranking American officers who have used the pulp of command to give public expression to extreme reactionary views. As Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara made plain in the long and often repetitious interrogation which he underwent at the instigation of Senator Thurmond, these men have a perfect right to their views or any other views, however far to the right or left.

But they do not have the right to impose their political opinions on the troops whom they command. Nor is theirs the right to try to shape policy by public speeches that have sometimes in the past directly opposed what the government is undertaking.

The principal case in point is that of Major General Edwin A. Walker who was relieved of command of the 24th Infantry Division in West Germany for trying to persuade his troops to his own extreme reactionary views in making their choices in last year's election. Ignoring the penalties that might have been applied under the Hatch Act, as the army did in its findings in the Walker case, this goes directly against the deeply rooted American tradition that separates the military from control or influence over the political life of the nation.

That tradition goes back to George Washington and the Founding Fathers. America's greatest military men have scrupulously lived up to this tradition. When they have taken part in the nation's political life it has been with full respect for civil authority and a complete divorce from the military power structure.

The wisdom of this wall of separation has been shown in countries where it is conspicuously lacking. The French army has been deep in politics for a very long time. The Dreyfus case, with its deep overtones of savage anti-Semitism tore the nation apart at the end of the last century.

Three years ago, with the steady determination of parliamentary government into full-scale military dictatorship, General de Gaulle look over in France. Put in power by the political generals, de Gaulle has again and again found himself hemmed in by their machinations. They have balked at settlement in Algeria, with the result that the bloody and frustrating war against the Moslem rebels still goes on. Rumors abound in Paris today, spread more or less openly by high French officers, of the intention of bringing off another and final coups to topple de Gaulle and last weekend's attempt to assassinate him tends to verify these sinister rumors.

In Latin America the military man on horseback has been the curse of orderly political life. One hopeless revolution after another has been led by the ambitious general with a flair for power. And the end result has almost always been a corrupt dictatorship that has left the country impoverished to the point of ruin.

When Janio Quadros resigned as president of Brazil the military intervened with an open threat of civil war to try to prevent the vice-president, Joao Goulart, from succeeding to the office. This threat seems to have forced the Brazilian Congress to alter the form of government, greatly reducing the powers of the presidency in favor of a premier. Whether the military in Brazil will permit the reforms essential to meet the requirements of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress is an open question.

The most extreme example was Germany between the two wars. The German military, which has always exercised far-reaching powers, was the force, as William Shirer shows in his monumental "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," that confirmed Hitler's dictatorship. On the intervention of the German army in politics Shirer records:

"To further its conservative views it (the army) gave the soldiers courses of 'political instruction' in one of which Adolf Hitler was an attentive pupil. One day, according to his own story, he intervened during a lecture in which someone had said a good word for the Jews. His anti-Semitic harangue apparently so pleased his superior officers that he was soon posted to a Munich regiment as an educational officer, a Bildungsoffizier, whose main task was to combat dangerous ideas—pacifism, socialism, democracy; such was the army's conception of its role in the democratic republic it had sworn to serve."

It couldn't happen here—that is the conviction of a people who have lived under that tradition of civil authority over military men conditioned to regard themselves as devoted servants of the state. Yet General Eisenhower on his last day as president of the United States spoke grave words of warning about the potential of the power exercised in this country through the massive military defense structure that has come into being with the spending of up to $50 billion a year on arms. That was an echo of Washington who never wavered in his determination to observe both the letter and the spirit of the Constitution in helping to set the infant republic on the course of representative government.

The Business of Old Age

Still Want to Linger?

By CASSANDRA,
from London

THE word is Gerontology—

which means the business of old age. In these times of imminent threatened death for hundreds of millions of human beings by nuclear extinction, anybody who expresses an interest in this subject has my enthusiastic support.

But I was always in the business of supplying lifebelts for dead ducks.

The Bordeaux Society of Gerontology (yes, thank you, Dear God, there is such a delightful band of hope) has been studying the question of long life.

They have laid down certain rules on the art of being a hundred years old, which may be of interest to those who have the damned sense of wanting to go on living with or without the permission of Nikita Khrushchev.

First of all you must be a woman, which wipes out well over a thousand million human beings who at birth were laid out to be males. The frail sex has always been mighty tough when it comes to the question of hanging around this planet.

Secondly, the long-distance

gals must have had no children

at all. Then you must have had a hard, regular life in the open air, probably involving turnips, spreading muck and bringing home the sheaves.

Still want to linger on, dear Eve? You must also be thin, teetotal and a non-smoker.

The Ante-chamber

Furthermore, you must undergo regular medical check-ups and never in any circumstances retire to an old folks' home, which, say the French gerontologists, is "an ante-chamber to death."

It hardly seems worthwhile continuing the business of survival, but Cato, when he was eighty, began to study Greek, and the great American financier Vanderbilt increased his fortune by $100,000,000 between the time he was a septuagenarian and an octogenarian.

But give me the philosophy of Andre Maurois every time. He said: "Growing old is no more than a bad habit which a busy man has no time to form."

De Gaulle Speaks

Well, we seem to have had the lot now.

We had ball points in Berlin, water cannon versus tear gas, Adenauer questioning the legitimacy of Willi Brandt and superb assembly from our own prime minister at Glenelg.

Now, to put the cap and bells on it all, we have General de Gaulle breaking his holy silence.

While he kept quiet there was some sort of sagacity about the old man brooding and saying now! But it has been shattered by his words in his press conference.

He says that Khrushchev's blackmailing attitude may be prompted by grave internal unrest inside Russia.

What a bromide!

We had the same old stuff about Hitler-before and during the war.

Ottawa Report

And a TUC Gold Medal

By ARTHUR BLANKY

FROM the moment when they first started to speak of the possibility of setting up a new political party, the founding fathers of the New Democratic Party were keenly aware of the danger that it might be regarded with suspicion as the creature of organized labor.

Countless assurances have been given in many different forms that this would not be the case.

The new party, said the founding fathers, would be the property of farmers, socialists, liberal-minded Canadians and, finally, of organized labor. And there would be no question of any one group dominating the party as a whole. It would be a kind of equal partnership.

Of all the founding fathers, none were more emphatic on the point than Mr. Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, Mr. Stanley Knowles, a former CCF MP who had secured a haven as executive vice-president of the CLC, and other CLC spokesmen.

They scoffed at suggestions that this was to be a Canadian labor party. Organized labor, said Mr. Jodoin and his lieutenants on many oratorical occasions, had no desire to dominate the new party even if it could. And it was plain, to them in any event, that labor couldn't, even if it would. Mr. Jodoin announced that while unions affiliated with the CLC would and should affiliate with the new party, the Canadian Labor Congress itself would remain aloof. Once the new party had been founded, that is.

Critics standing on the sidelines weren't impressed. They noted that the bulk of the funds which the new party would have at its disposal would come from the trade unions, imposing a political check-off. And if organized labor was paying the New Party piper, would not organized labor be calling the tune?

The New Party founders retorted that they were by no means certain that the bulk of the funds at the disposal of the New Party would, in fact, come from trade unions and trade unionists.

At one time, quite a few people interested in the new political party expected and hoped that it would be named, simply and logically, the Canadian Labor Party, following the British example. So serious, however, was the controversy over the influence which organized labor would exercise over the new party that the name was one of the first to be rejected by the founding fathers as singularly inappropriate in existing circumstances.

Old-line CCFers and farm groups remained suspicious, however, right up to the opening of the founding convention. In consequence, efforts to keep organized labor's contribution to the founding of the party as unobtrusive as possible were intensified.

One labor reporter who attended the founding convention wrote: "Organized labor has kept to the shadows at the founding convention of the New Party—so much so that some union members are concerned that the trade union are in danger of eclipsing themselves as an influential force in the party they have helped to create."

The party's real founders, however, didn't think so. In accepting nomination for the leadership of the New Party, Saskatchewan's Premier T. C. Douglas—tagged by some as the nominee of organized labor—felt it necessary to emphasize: "No economic group has me in its pocket. No economic group will be allowed to dominate this party."

So the New Democratic Party came into existence as an enterprise in which farmers, socialists and labor were equal partners. It's true that farm organizations had proved embarrassingly reluctant to give the party their blessing. But however that may be, this was the New Democratic Party and not a Canadian Labor Party. And that seemed to be that.

Quite recently, however, Mr. Stanley Knowles made an authorized pilgrimage to the British Trades Union Congress convention in Portsmouth, in the guise of a fraternal delegate of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Invited to speak, Mr. Knowles said that he brought them tidings of great joy.

Canadian socialists he reported as having said, had wandered about in the wilderness for years, now trying American methods and now making distinctive Canadian experiments of their own—a reference, it may be, to the CCF movement. The news that Mr. Knowles brought, he said, was that Canadian socialists had now concluded that the British way of doing things was the best way after all.

"Across the years," said Fraternal Delegate Knowles, amid loud applause, "we have come to the decision on our own that the system you chose more than half a century ago is the best."

The system chosen by us, gained labor in Britain was, of course, the formation of a British Labor Party to be supported by labor votes. And Mr. Knowles went on to say, in fact that Canada's new party had copied many features of the constitution of the British Labor Party. An exception was the block vote.

TUC Chairman Ted Hill replied: "We are all immensely proud that our Canadian brethren have seen the light after all those years to found their own movement."

And Fraternal Delegate Knowles was presented forthwith, it is reported, with a set of china and the TUC gold medal.

The German Election

Lofty Discourse

By F. K. MANOR, from Düsseldorf

VICE-CHANCELLOR Ludwig Erhard, who after Sunday's election may well be Germany's new chancellor, recently explained here the political philosophy of his liberalism to an overflow audience of some 1,000 persons.

If Chancellor Adenauer fails to obtain an absolute majority in the next parliament a coalition government will have to be formed under a new chancellor, presumably Mr. Erhard.

Fighting for the political life of his party whose popularity is rapidly sinking according to the latest Gallup polls, Mr. Erhard produced the most unusual political performance I've seen since former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent visited Winnipeg in his election campaign to tell us of Canada's economic life.

Leaning on the lectern in professional style and talking in quiet academic tones, Mr. Erhard first disposed briefly of his Socialist opponents and then delved into his fund of economic and philosophical knowledge to remind his audience where he—and the event—was throughout on the first person singular—let them out of the ruins of the immediate postwar period to present-day prosperity. Mr. Erhard did not need to dwell on the latter; Düsseldorf is the very heart of the Erhardian miracle, its great thriving industries, its jostling crowds, its glittering shops a living illustration of the professor's magic wand.

Thus the vice-chancellor did not have to waste words on the patent well-being of his audience, but he did remind them that his Erhardian economy knows no cycles, that since 1948 it has moved in a steady upward curve, and that it is still moving upwards. However, most of the evening was devoted to discussing the philosophy of liberalism that should enable Europe to be led by German thought, and yet bring forth a new way of life—be it a counterpart to Communism or be it a counterpart to materialist Americanism.

Europe's manifold culture must be reconciled with its new needs for integration to allow the individual to thrive in freedom freed from all collective ties, standing by himself. There must be no half-measures where freedom is concerned.

It was a lofty speech pronounced with German academic thoroughness and Mr. Erhard did not mince words.

Without Hustle

By GREGORY CLARK

ON a weekend visit to the village home of a writing colleague of mine, I found him about to undertake the job of building a veritable fence along the south side of his house on which, next year, he intends to plant climbing vines.

"I'll lend you a hand," I said.

"Good," said he, going over and sitting in the rocking chair of the wide porch.

"Well, let's get at it!" I suggested.

"No," said he. "You don't go at a job like this as if it were a fire you had to put out. Sit down while I collect my thoughts."

After we sat and smoked for 20 minutes, he rose deliberately, led me around to a back shed where, without haste, he selected the tools we required. Then, in a manner not leisurely, exactly, but certainly without heat or hustle, we carried the slats in bundles to spots he pointed out along the side of the house.

"A good job," he said. "I never done as if the main thing were to get it over and done with. Each nail should be driven as if it were important. Each slat should be placed in position with respect for it. The job itself should feel, so to speak, that you have affection for it. Then the job will respond to you by being good."

By supper time, the trellis fence was a good job, and more than that, a beauty.

fence was a good job, and more than that, a beauty.

Schools were dismissed and most businesses were closed in the biggest event—in a military way—since the "pig war" 102 years ago.

The island, theoretically the fictitious "Republic of Olympia," has been overrun and occupied by "aggressor" forces. They are scheduled to surrender Monday as the climax of the successful three-day assault.

The "liberators" were members of the 4th Infantry Division, one of three elements of the Strategic Army Corps, led by Maj. Gen. William Train, Ft. Lewis commander.

They went ashore from landing craft of the Pacific fleet

Former Publisher Dies Here

Former publisher of The Winnipeg Tribune, who was active in newspaper work in the prairie city for 48 years prior to retiring in 1948, Wesley McCurdy, 80, died yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. McCurdy was born near Winnipeg and graduated in arts in 1900 from the University of Manitoba. The same year he joined the Winnipeg Free Press and in 1904 was appointed advertising manager.

A few years later he organized, with R. J. McPherson, the advertising agency of McPherson-McCurdy, and in 1910 became advertising manager of the Grain Growers' Guide.

Three years later he disposed of his interest in the agency to rejoin the Free Press as director, secretary-treasurer and assistant to the general manager.

VICE-PRESIDENT
Mr. McCurdy remained with the paper 11 years, then became business manager of the Tribune. In 1942 he was elected a vice-president of the parent Southam Co. and became publisher of the paper.

Before illness curtailed his activities in retirement, he was an enthusiastic golfer and once was publicity chairman for Red Cross campaigns.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1.30 p.m. at McCurdy's funeral home.

William Tait Rites Today

Funeral services will be held in Vancouver today for William Ross Tait, 69, a former Victoria resident who served in the provincial civil service for 32 years, the last 20 of which were with the purchasing commission.

B.C. purchasing commission officials yesterday paid tribute to Mr. Tait's long and valued service. He died in Vancouver Wednesday.

Mr. Tait was a grand steward-in-the Grand Lodge of B.C. AF & AM; past master Britannia Lodge No. 73, Victoria; treasurer of Evergreen Lodge No. 148, Vancouver; member of Scottish Rite of Ancient and Accepted Rite of Free Masonry; past Most High Sovereign of the Rose Croix and member of the Gizeh Temple Shrine.

He is survived by his widow, Evelyn; two daughters, Mrs. C. Kemp, London, Ont., and Mrs. Fred Chapman, Vancouver; a brother, Ernest Lush; an aunt, Mrs. A. L. Stewart of Vancouver, and three grandchildren.

Point Reyes, 30 miles north of San Francisco, is much the same today as when Sir Francis Drake landed there in 1579.

Yanks Set Club Record But No Homers for 'Ms'

New York Yankees set a new major league club mark for home runs last night by hitting three balls out of Riggs Stadium in Detroit. But none of them were hit by Roger Maris for Mickey Mantle

Maris to get official recognition for a new record. Maris needs four to get to 60 and Mantle needs seven.

Actually, the Yankees have 13 games left in the American League schedule, but baseball commissioner Ford Frick has ruled that Ruth's record will stand unless it is broken in 154 games.

But the team record has already been increased to 223. Yogi Berra tied the old high of his sixth successive 20-win season and the 12th of his career.

Spahn had pitched 10 successive complete games, winning them all, but he couldn't beat the jinx which has seen him winless in the Dodgers' home parks since 1948.

WALKS THREE

The Dodgers went down in order in the first inning but Frank Howard led off the second with a home run. Spahn walked the next three hitters and Spahn left after Norm Sherry had followed with a two-run single.

Dodgers got six runs before it was over, added the rest of their runs with another outburst in the fourth inning.

In the other game, San Francisco Giants leaped over the Braves into third place with a 5-1 win over Chicago Cubs.

Biggest Coho For Contest

Largest coho entered in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest this year, 20 pounds 30 ounces, was caught yesterday morning off Hates Beach. The huge silver, in prime condition, was caught by Jim Cooper of New Westminster, who was fishing with a Rex Field coho plug and using two ounces of weight.

The fish was sent in to Courtney to be checked by fisheries inspector George McIntosh, who identified it as a coho.

It was the largest coho yet caught off Hates Beach. The previous biggest there was a 19½-pounder caught about six years ago by Rev. F. Johnson of Courtney.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Bob's Mistake, who runs today in the seventh race at Sandown Park, and Polonez, sixth in a field of seven yesterday, aren't among the more distinguished members of thoroughbred society. But they have more in common than so far mediocre careers, and thereby hangs an interesting little tale.

It began one day in 1956, or perhaps it was early in 1957, when Bob Randall, co-owner of the Ascot Jockey Club, and Harry Wilson, a track fixture who has served as track cameraman and publicist since at least about the time Portia's Pebble was foaled, took off for the B.C. interior.

It was in the days of the yearling special, or whatever it was called, when one race at Exhibition Park offered a yearling in addition to $2,000 in purse money as top prize, and Bob and Harry were on a mission to purchase that extra prize.

They headed for Pritchard, near Kelowna, where Capt. Kasimir Rutczynski, a former officer in the Polish cavalry, conducts a breeding farm. The purchase was made during a convivial evening, but it was only the first purchase. It was discovered eventually that the animal they had contracted for was already a yearling and not the weanling that was wanted.

Another deal was made, and the Ascot Jockey Club became the temporary owner of a young colt who was to grow up to be a most distinctive looking gelding, a chestnut with a white face who was named Polonez.

Lord Renfrew won the race and Bill Lockhead, now head of the Horsemen's Protective and Benevolent Association, became the owner of Polonez.

Polonez, by Ab Jr., out of Pianist, looked like a good one when he was being reared for the races. Then it was discovered he was broken-winded. He didn't run as a two-year-old, won a race at Sandown in the mud in 1959 and then was sold to Victoria-aidedman Geoff Edgewood.

Polonez was sent to Washington State University, where a thumal operation was performed by a skilled veterinary surgeon. Polonez made two starts at Exhibition Park last year without getting into the money but had earned $1,340 in seven races at Vancouver this season, winning two and getting show money once.

So much for Polonez, but what of the first purchase? It wasn't needed so it became part of the stake in a bet. When it didn't come up seven, Chuck Charles became the new owner, and he promptly named his new yearling Bob's Mistake.

Charles later lost Bob's Mistake when Theodore Kleef, the present owner, claimed him. By coincidence, Kleef is a former pilot in the Polish Air Force, a little item which must have Capt. Kasimir Rutczynski humming the mazurka.

PRO TICK, always a popular favorite at Sandown, has had a most frustrating season to date. In 13 starts at Vancouver, Billy Fields' veteran chestnut gelding has placed nine times and taken show money twice, always with Joe D'Aguilina in the saddle. . . in his last 10 starts, Pro Tick has never been more than three lengths out and has lost six times by a length or less. Wesley Jones rides him today, but it should be the winners' circle at last. . . Louie Better isn't having the same kind of a season as it had last year, the veteran winning once and placing once in seven starts this season as the years apparently begin to take their toll. . . Caradoc, left at the gate yesterday for the second straight time, will likely be barred from further racing for at least this season. . . a worry over a possible shortage of stock at Sandown has been ended by the arrival of more thoroughbreds and track officials state that more than 200, in addition to a dozen or so two-year-olds, are now in the stables.

KEN DARBYSHIRE, Victoria owner and trainer, saddled 28 winners at Exhibition Park this year, a total beaten only by H. Johnson, who had 32, and equaled by T. Taylor. . . the Bacing Fern, which has replaced the Green Sheet, is new to most district racing fans but they won't be long in admitting that it is worth the extra 10 cents. . . tracks are now being permitted 11 mutual pools each day instead of 10, which makes it all but certain that there will be two quinellas and one double each day at Sandown. . . one or two mistakes in judgment could be noted yesterday but there is little doubt but that the calibre of riding will be better than has been usual at Sandown. And while Amos Martinez looks like the fellow to beat in the jockey standings, there are a half dozen others who may give him quite a run for the honors. . . betting at Vancouver this year averaged $154,002 daily, up about $15,000 a yard from 1960. The total mutual handle at Exhibition Park was a whopping $12,384,193.

Dave Diamond, who started Rae Rose in yesterday's first race, is the year's leading money-winning owner. He has had 32 winners and his stable has won $47,950. Blue Barstier, the seven-year-old beaten favorite in the sixth race yesterday, was claimed from the Bino Stable, for $800, by H. Sawtell and W. Bates, who had Calway running in the same race.

Gary Player in Tie For Seattle Open Lead

SEATTLE (AP)—Gary land, Ore., and Bill Collins of Player of South Africa, moved into a four-way tie for the lead Friday at the middle point in the 72-hole $25,000 Greater Seattle Open tournament.

Player shaved six strokes off par 70 on the meandering 6,328-yard Broadmoor golf course for a two-round total of 133. Tied with him for the lead were Jay Herbert of Lafayette, La.; Bob Rosburg, Fort 221, set by the 1947 New York Giants, and tied by the 1958 Cincinnati Reds by hitting a two-run homer in the first game of a double-header.

Bill Skowron then set a new standard with a three-run homer in the seventh inning and Cleve Boyer broke the record again with a home run in the second game.

The Yankees won the first one, 11-1, as Whitey Ford easily gained his 24th win in 27 decisions. The Tigers came back to win the second game, 4-2.

IN POSITION

The split moved the Yankees into a position where they can clinch at least a tie for the pennant by tomorrow. Any combination of five Detroit defeats or New York victories will see it up mathematically, and the Yanks can assure a tie in games against Detroit today and tomorrow.

Detroit is the only club which can catch the defending champions, Baltimore Orioles were mathematically eliminated last night when they were beaten 2-2 by Boston Red Sox on a 10th-inning home run by rookie Carl Yastrzemski.

EASY SCHEDULE

Cincinnati Reds, whose bid for the National League title is being helped considerably by an easy September schedule, again sat it out yesterday as their lead was cut to four and a half games by Los Angeles.

The in-and-out Dodgers pounced on the league's hottest pitcher last night as they racked up Milwaukee Braves, 11-2.

Driven to cover as early as the second inning was Warren Spahn, the amazing veteran who was trying for the victory which would have given him

Just One Look at Habs During City Training Camp

Hockey fans who want to sit in on Montreal Canadiens' training camp will have just one chance—tomorrow afternoon at Memorial Arena.

Canadiens arrive here today to set up their training camp at Memorial Arena. It will be open house tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m., giving fans a chance to meet the players and watch the first workout. Then the curtain drops, and the Blake's club begins its campaign to get back the Stanley Cup.

From then on they work out twice daily, at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., and all workouts will be closed to the public.

COMET GAME

Next time they go on public view will be Sept. 27, when they play Spokane Comets at Memorial Arena in the second game of their 11-game exhibition tour, which opens the previous night in Vancouver against the Canucks.

First half of the Canadian entourage arrives at Patricia Bay Airport this morning at 11:25, the second at 8 p.m. Players will stay at the Empress Hotel.

At the moment the club's big scorer, Bernie "Bom Boom" Geoffrion, is assigned. Geoffrion, who tied Rocket Rich-

Two Lion Linemen Could Be Finished

Trying too hard to do something about avoiding it has injured B.C. Lions that should season will continue to be a dismal one.

Foing all out against Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday night the Lions made it an almost vicious game and paid the price in injuries which could deprive them of their two best import linemen for the rest of the season.

Rookie Tom Brown and Tom Hinton both injured knees in the second half and while the extent of their hurts has not yet been finally diagnosed, the outlook for both is not good.

Four other Lions were also injured stored three quick hurt, but all may be able to fourth period goals to down play against Toronto Argonauts. Ends take a 21 lead in games in Pat Claxide and Jim Carpin the best of seven Manito Cap and halfback Bob Jeter all lacrosse series.

Selke claims that the training camp here is the first step in what he hopes will be formation of a "new era" Canadiens club.

Trading of defenseman Doug Harvey to New York Rangers marked the end of the teams led by Richard, Elmer Lach, Floyd Currie, Bush Buchanan and Harvey. Now, Selke says, the club will rebuild around Henri Richard, Jean Beliveau, Geoffrion, Dickie Moore and Jacques Plante.

'All-New' Bowling Season

By JIM TAYLOR

The key word in any discussion of the new bowling season in Greater Victoria is new.

New alleys with new equipment and new leagues filled with hundreds of new bowlers make it a certainty that this will be the biggest season in local bowling history.

It may also be the best. There are more tournaments plans in the works than ever before. More and more bowlers are coming through with higher averages, and formation of fivepin and island bowling proprietors' associations should mean smoother operation.

Most leagues begin bowling next week, and in another few weeks it will be possible to pin down the exact number of bowlers in the area. At the moment, suffice to say that number will certainly be an all-time record.

Victoria fivepin bowlers start shooting for a possible television appearance in Toronto.

The Vancouver Island Bowling Proprietors' Association has scheduled roll-offs at every Island freestyle house to pick representatives for a B.C. roll off in Vancouver Sept. 30.

Winner there will be sent to Toronto to appear on a network television show Oct. 7. Entry fee is $4.00, and each bowler will roll 10 games.

Capital City Lanes and the new Loomer Lanes will hold their roll-offs tomorrow. Sgt. new lanes rolls Sept. 23, and Gibson's, Esquimalt and Strathcona lanes Sept. 24.

British Threat Beaten

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Dudley Wysong, both young and determined, play today for the U.S. amateur golf championship.

Nicklaus, only 21 although he won this same title two years ago, routed Marion (Sonny) Methvin 9 and 8 in Friday's 36 hole semi-finals with a strong display of power.

Wysong, a 22-year-old advertising man, eliminated Joe Carr of Ireland, the strongest British threat for the American title since 1936, two-up.

Carr, five down at the lunch-time intermission, staged an uprising on the second round that brought him to the final hole one down. But he sent his third shot onto a hard ledge and lost his chance.

But final holes of the exciting duel were played in fog so thick that marshalls and golf officials were placed along the usual to point out fittant shots.

Drakes Face Royals On Gridiron Today

Victoria Drakes, a last-place, winless football club for the first time in their lives, will try to do something about it today at Macdonald Park.

Drakes face New Westminster Royals for the third straight time in the Pacific Coast Intermediate Canadian Football Conference. In their last two meetings Royals won 21-20 on the last play of the game in Victoria and whipped Drakes, 21-7, in New Westminster.

Today Drakes will be in perhaps their best shape of the year although several players will be missing. Quarterback Chuck Weeks is over his leg injury and fullback Ken Higgs will probably see some action. Drakes will also use Ian Stewart, an ex-UBC Thunderbird star who played briefly with B.C. Lions and Calgary Stampeders. Stewart, now practising law in Victoria, can play end, halfback or quarterback, or take a turn on defense.

However there is a dark side to the Drake picture, too. Guard Fred Harris and tackle Jim Clark, both standouts in Drakes' first three games, will be out of town this weekend.

New Sandown Strip Shaves Racing Times

By JIM TANG

There was a new look about Sandown Park yesterday, and while a crowd of about 1,500 only put $36,851 through the mutuel machines, there was nothing else that didn't augur well for a satisfactory 16 days of thoroughbred racing.

The rebuilt racing strip, now considered perhaps the best in the province, proved itself yesterday as three successive winners negotiated six furlongs in 1:12.3, only two-fifths of a second off the track record set last year by Little Shay.

The newly-banked turns did away with the previous crowding at the clubhouse turn and although the horses in the inside pole positions still did most of the winning, the outcome of a dash no longer depends so much on the race to the first turn.

Also adding to the pleasure of the bettors was the dispatch with which the card was run. The new junior totalsator speeded up betting, and the seven races were run off between 1:15 and 4:10. And the odds board is now giving the correct readings.

Feature of the day's racing was the $102.90 quinella in the fourth race, set up when favored Nadebt could do no better than fourth while Ambler Fox, a southern invader from Portland Meadows, made a brave attempt to catch fast-breaking Amsterman, the second choice.

Place price on Ambler Fox, an 8-1 shot, was $18.20, higher than any of the straight pay-offs.

Only once were double figures posted for a winning race as three favorites justified the confidence of fans and two second choices came in. The biggest straight return, $13.90, was paid in the fifth race when Hyrnfaxe, stepping down just a bit, barely lasted to hold off favored Siwash Grace.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Continuing yesterday's notes on how to shop for spring-flowering bulbs, I should point out that there are various grades of daffodil, tulip and hyacinth bulbs, offered.

The top grade, in daffodils, for instance, is the mother bulb, containing in a clump one large central bulb with three or four offsets or side bulbs. It is quite possible to get three to five stems of flowers from each mother bulb, but these are too expensive to plant ad lib/ outdoors. These are the ones to choose for sure-fire display in the house, potting them up in bulb bowls or squat pots filled with sandy loam soil, bulb fibre, peat moss, vermiculite or perlite, and in some cases, in bowls of washed pebbles and water.

The second grade in daffodils is the double-nosed bulb, which is ideal for beds and borders. The single-nosed is the least expensive and this is the one to buy by the hundred for naturalizing in grass.

Hyacinths and tulips are graded into tops and seconds. Here again, you need the biggest and best bulbs you can afford for potting up, while the cheaper seconds are quite satisfactory for outdoor planting. As I mentioned yesterday, the occasional smaller bulb may not bloom until the spring of 1963, but the odd "blind" plant won't be noticed too much in a massed planting.

When you look over the daffodil bulbs, make sure the fleshy, hard and firm, and the skin clean and unbroken. There is reason to suspect trouble in dark-colored and broken-skinned samples.

Although you very seldom see a tulip bulb which is perfectly symmetrical in shape, the unevenness shouldn't be too pronounced. For example a tulip bulb that looks as if it had been squeezed flat while soft could very well be infected with the dreaded fire-disease, and should be avoided. A distinct neck and a pointed top are good signs, pointing to a healthy and well-grown bulb.

The key point in hyacinths is the part immediately below the neck. Press this shoulder of the bulb with the fingers, and select bulbs which show no sign of yielding here. Softness at this point is often a sign of blindness. Have a good look at the skin, too, which should be unbroken or nearly so. Too much breakage and ragged, loose skin sometimes indicates that the bulb has not been ripened properly.

When you get your bulbs home, always remember that the safest place to store them is in the soil. Under the conditions found in the average home, the bulbs will go downhill steadily from too much warmth and too little moisture in the air, and the sooner you get them planted, the better. While no substantial harm is done in holding them for a week or so, it is best to take them out of their bags and store them in trays or shallow boxes, a single layer deep, and in a cool place.

Always make a point of handling your bulbs as if they were eggs. Like onions and apples, they bruise easily, and a single bruise may easily set up conditions favorable for the entry of disease organisms.

Cigar Boxes Doom Architects

Back in New York after 10 weeks abroad, my first impression of the town is that it is hot, dirty, noisy, crowded, and very good humored about all these things. I had a long talk with a lady cab driver on the way in from Idlewild, testing the winds of popular discontent.

She hated Gov. Rockefeller, had a fine contempt for Mayor Wagner, and seemed singularly unmoved by Berlin. Right away I knew I was home. The local scene came first, and the emotions seemed comfortingly familiar.

Frankly, I don't know how they got all these tall buildings built in this climate. The Sahara at high noon in August has nothing on New York in September, and you can quote me, bub. I don't know how they got the pyramids up either in that hot but dry climate, but they had whips. We got nothing but money.

Still, the buildings seem to go up. There's a 20-storey apartment house going up at the head of my street, replacing a row of four-storey edifices. O. Henry used to say it'd be a great city when they get it finished, but I'm not so sure any more. The high rise apartments are the shape of the future not only here but everywhere. They were building a 20-storey job right next to my hotel in Monte Carlo and they were in such a hurry to get it done, they started the hammering at 7 a.m. and kept it up until 11 p.m. The only time you could get any sleep was from noon till 2 p.m. when the workers knocked off for lunch.

Around the outskirts of every city anywhere in the world the same tall, square, depressing buildings are going up. I think the architects of the world have let us down. I do think something more stimulating than these upended cigar boxes might be contrived. I am starved for the sight of a curve in a building. Do we have to have all those straight lines and knife-edged corners? Is it just possible that Louis Sullivan was dead wrong when he said "form follows function"? Why should it? I think these cigar boxes are not only lazy architecture, but also that the architects are going to make themselves unnecessary with these rectangles. Anyone can draw a rectangle. Who needs an architect?

I have brought back another small campaign I'd like to launch. I think we are entirely too hasty junking our street cars for buses. I'm crazy about street cars, especially the new post-war jobs. Munich, Geneva, Stockholm, Belgrade have new swift street-cars which are almost noiseless. I recall the old-style street car, which made an awful racket. The new ones make no noise at all except when crossing another set of rails. They're very fast, easy to operate, and they don't fill the atmosphere with carbon monoxide. Also, they're cheap.

There's almost nothing noisier, dirtier or more uncomfortable than a bus, and they're terribly hard to operate, considering the guy also has to make change, tell old ladies where Bleeker Street is, and tell us all to step to the rear. Let's go back to the street car.

The other small thought I seem to have inscribed in my note book is that the women of the world are one and all wearing pants. From Belgrade to Stockholm, from Scotland to Munich, the womenfolk everywhere more and more are in trousers. In St. Tropez they wear pants for evening wear and I rather suspect that habit will spread. They'll be wearing them to the office next. In fact, I'm willing to lay eight to five that in 100 years skirts will be worn for only extreme ceremony. Girls will get married in them and maybe get buried in skirts. The rest of their lives they'll spend in pants.

Star Singers Slay Them!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Seems that today's singers are killers—career-wise. Fabian plays a teen-age killer in a "Bus Stop" segment. And Columbia record star Johnny Cash plays a psycho killer in the movie, "Five Minutes to Live."

Mrs. Robert Stack, after five years of marriage and two children, returned for a while to her acting career. She played the wife of Dick Powell recently in a TV segment at four star. "But I don't plan to make this acting a habit," smiled Robert's pretty, blue-eyed wife.

Jack Palance waits until everyone in Rome takes their daily siesta—the town is dead between 3 and 5 p.m. "Then I drive about the city in comfort," he said. Jack likes to drive, but driving in Rome during the rush hours is very dangerous.

The villa in Rome now rented by Tony Quinn for $1,000 a month has four-feet-thick walls, insuring privacy for Tony, his family, and the five-foot snakes and two-foot-long lizards, some of which work their way along the ceilings. That is one villa I would never visit.

Navy Stays Silent On 'Obsolete' Charge

Naval officials here yesterday declined to comment on statements made in the House of Commons that Russian atomic submarines can "swim circles" around the Royal Canadian Navy's destroyer escorts.

Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer said in the Commons Thursday that Canada's destroyer escorts are incapable of tracking down and destroying nuclear submarines.

He also charged that the submarine HMCS Grilse is an obsolete type of vessel which "no one in his right mind would send out to sea."

A navy spokesman here declined either to confirm or deny Mr. Hellyer's charges. It would be up to Defence Minister Harkness to defend the navy's position, he said.

Mr. Harkness told the Commons the statements were wrong. He also said it would be up to combined NATO navies to protect Canada and other NATO countries.

Godbout Reaches Canadian Semis

TORONTO (CP)—Francis Godbout of Waterloo, Que., defeated John Swann of Toronto Friday night in a 54-game scramble for a semi-final berth in the Canadian tennis championship.

Fifth-seeded Godbout upset the fourth-seeded Swann, 8-6, 9-7, 6-4, 8-6.

Godbout will meet top-seeded Mike Sangster of Torquay, England, in the men's singles semi-finals today.

Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., third-seeded in the tournament, also advanced to the semi-final after winning a close match from Mike Carpenter of Montreal, 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 4-6, 8-6.

Rider Kicker Out of Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders, their ranks already thinned through injury, will be without linebacker and kicker Gerry Nesbitt today in their Eastern Football Conference game against Montreal Alouettes.

Nesbitt collided with end Bill Sowalski in practice and suffered an ankle injury.

Cricket Cup Play On Sunday

Incoqs. at full strength for the first time since mid-season, take another shot at the B.C. Club cricket championship Sunday at Beacon Hill Park: meeting Brookton Point at 1 p.m. in the annual battle for the Tomlin Cup.

Incoqs were beaten by the Brookton Point side in last year's match, but with Rob Wilson, Nick Prowse and Kerry Creek back in action after a European jaunt, the city club expects to turn the tables.

The three Incoqs stars helped get the club off to a fast start that meant the Victoria and District Cricket Association championship.

Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., second-seeded and going for his fourth Canadian championship, had little trouble with Montreal's Val Harri, defeating him 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

Bedard will meet Reed in the semi-finals today.

The women's semi-finals were cleared up earlier Friday when Ann Haydon of Birmingham, England, coolly trounced Marion Boudry of Montreal, ranked fifth in Canada, 6-0, 6-0 and Toronto's Ann Barclay, formerly of Vancouver, defeated Louis Brown, also of Toronto, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

In the second round of the women's doubles Ann Haydon and Benita Senn, Toronto, defeated Vickie Berner, Vancouver, and Brenda Nunns, Toronto, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0.

Population Down 723

Scurrah Challenges Ottawa Over Census Blow to City

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday threw down the gauntlet and prepared to join in battle with federal census officials over their claim the city's population has shrunk 723 in the past five years.

"I challenge that most emphatically," he said. "In 1956 we had 7,992 school children in the city and in 1961 we have 8,856."

"In addition to that there has been millions of dollars in building in the city, especially many apartment buildings. Most of them are 70 per cent filled."

"It doesn't make sense to me that, with the number of houses and apartments that have been built and the scarcity of empty houses, the figures could be correct."

Preliminary census figures released yesterday gave Vic-

torian's 1961 population as 53,861, compared with 54,584 in 1956.

Building figures over the past 5½ years—from the beginning of 1956 to the middle of 1961—show 677 single-family houses, 130 duplex-type houses and 812 apartments.

But while Mayor Scurrah was unhappy with the preliminary figures, civic leaders in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt were pleased.

Coun. Leslie Pasamore, acting reeve, felt Saanich's figure was very gratifying. The census showed Saanich's population increased by 9,787, to 48,145 in 1961 from 38,358 in 1956.

Healthy Increase

"The increase is something most of us anticipated," he said.

"If provincial government grants remain the same on a per capita basis there will be a healthy increase."

But Coun. Pasamore supported Mayor Scurrah with: "I cannot see how the city has less people than five years ago and he is justified in challenging it."

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay: "It isn't too bad so far as Oak Bay is concerned. We are up about 1,400 (16,295 in 1961, 14,897 in 1956). I think myself some people were missed. Our social assistance costs will be up this year, about as much as we will get from the government's per capita grant."

Esquimalt's population increased to 11,536 in 1961 from 10,384 in 1956 and Reeve Wurtele also suggested some residents were missed.

"Esquimalt is a very difficult place to take a census of because of the naval housing. Sometimes people are away and sometimes not."

"I would have said our increase was more than they have put down, but I don't think we should question it. I would like to know how they went about it, but that figure cannot be too far out."

If the low census figure for the city is upheld Victoria stands to lose $4,700 annually in per capita grants from B.C.

But the other three municipalities stand to gain. Saanich's grant will increase to $456,160 a year, from $352,854.

Oak Bay's grant will increase to $176,360 a year, from $164,856.

Esquimalt's grant will increase to $136,288 a year, from $129,072.

Chiefs Coming

The Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police has accepted an invitation to hold its 87th annual convention in Victoria. The convention will be held in early September, 1963.

... 'niggardly salary'

'Back-Biters Scuttled' Centennial Mastermind

Hotelman Springs To Dow's Support

By TED PULFORD

The president of the Victoria Hotels Association yesterday sprang to the support of Victoria's Centennial committee co-ordinator William Dow who resigned from his post earlier in the day.

N. W. Renard charged Mr. Dow's plans for a king-sized extravaganza to mark the city's 100th birthday were scuttled by "lack of support, back-biting, interference and no money."

TOLD EVERYONE

"And they humiliated the man into the bargain. They paid him a niggardly salary, then told everyone how much money he was making. They stripped him of what little power he had by turning the whole business over to a lot of little committees."

"The Victoria Hotel Association studied—and liked—Bill Dow's plan for a city centenary to remember. Now the city has scuttled the plans—and the planner—in the same stroke."

SPOONAD! GROWLS

Mr. Dow's sudden departure from the centennial stage climaxed several months of sporadic uneasiness within the committees and growls of disapproval from council.

Ald. Millard Mooney, who had blasted Ald. Edgelow for the hiring of Mr. Dow without first placing the vacancy with the city's personnel department, said:

ON WRONG FOOT

"I don't want to say I told you so, but the whole thing got off on the wrong foot from the start. We'll have to work harder than ever now to make our centenary a success, so let's get on with it and hope for the best."

Mr. Dow's successor will be hired through the city personnel department.

Centennial committee chairman Ald. Edgelow, expressing "surprise" at Mr. Dow's resignation, admitted trouble had been brewing for some time.

WASNT ENOUGH

"I think he (Mr. Dow) felt there wasn't enough money available to do the things he wanted to do. I know he thought his program was pretty good."

Ald. Edgelow indicated Mr. Dow had chafed under the restrictions imposed on him by the various subcommittees.

"I guess Bill wasn't used to the close scrutiny any municipally-controlled endeavor is subject to," he said.

OWN AUTHORITY

Mr. Dow indicated his work was hampered by a proliferation of committees.

"Certainly some of the things I did, I had to do on my own authority. Many of them had to be done right away or not at all, and I always acted sincerely in what

I felt to be Victoria's best interest.

"I couldn't always wait for an approval from the committee."

WONDERFUL SHOW

"Maybe my plans were financially staggering, but I was—and am—eager to see the project become a success. If even a quarter of my ideas bear fruit, we would have a wonderful show."

Desk-Clearing

'Copter Service Hearing Set

The year-old application by Okanagan Helicopters to the Air Transport Board for a licence to operate a Vancouver-Victoria helicopter service has been scheduled for a hearing before the board.

The announcement caused a brief flurry of interest in Victoria's business circles until it was learned that the decision to hold the hearing probably stemmed from transport-board desk-clearing, rather than any move by Okanagan Helicopters.

Ian Kennedy, vice-president of the company, said last night that the same factors that stalled introduction of the service a year ago applied today.

They include development of an economical machine, properly instrumented for the flight over the sometimes stormy Strait of Georgia, and a government subsidy.

Mr. Kennedy said the company would be represented at the hearing in Ottawa and was "certainly still interested in the plan."

Along with the Okanagan application, the board will hear applications by B.C. Airlines to extend its island operations north of Nanaimo and requests for suspensions of several operations zone licenses by Pacific Western Airlines.

It is understood that these applications were also submitted to the board some time ago.

Excellent-Schooled Mount

Top Canadian Horsewoman To Demonstrate Dressage

One of Canada's leading horsewomen with one of the nation's best-schooled horses will present a dressage exhibition at Saanichton fairgrounds Sunday.

Miss Inez Fischer-Credo of Vancouver and her thoroughbred mare Gordina will perform in conjunction with a local horse show.

They placed high last winter in competitions in California with some U.S. Olympic equestrian team riders, said C. C. Carpenter of Victoria, who will judge the horse show.

Events scheduled for the fifth annual competition of Victoria Western Horsemen include a 10 a.m. judging of local winners of preliminary, novice and elementary dressage events.

The special exhibition will be given when the main show is taken.

Workman, Spare That Tile

All set to stop "desecration" of legislative buildings floors is historian-writer James K. Nesbitt. Mr. Nesbitt is fighting to preserve buildings from "kitchen-style" vinyl tile flooring. Mr. Nesbitt's muzzel-loading weapon, which once belonged to Governor Blanshard, is in keeping with his traditionalist fight for preservation of buildings' dignity. See Peter Bruton's Notebook, below.—(Ryan Bros. photo.)

Minor Injuries

Youngsters Hurt In Two Crashes

Two youngsters suffered minor injuries in separate accidents yesterday, and both were sent home after emergency treatment.

Judy Carlson, 10, of 27 Erie, was riding her bicycle on Michigan, passing a double-parked car, when her machine was in collision with a car driven in the opposite direction by Gwen Lee, 4265 Grange. The girl was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a sore right leg. The accident happened about 8:45 a.m.

Just before 1 p.m. Barry Cragg, 16, of 1756 Lullie, sustained abrasions when the motorcycle on which he was a passenger collided with a car on Gladstone at the entrance to Victoria High School parking area.

Ian Douglas Houston, 2321 Lee, driver of the motorcycle, told police he thought a car ahead, driven by Harold McKenzie, 1921 Ash, was going to park on the right side of the road, and moved to pass.

Instead, the car made a left turn to the school parking lot, and the collision resulted. Cragg was treated for abrasions at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Lie-Down Siege Pledged Against Hated Lino Tile

ILL. MET BY MOONLIGHT: Historian-writer James K. Nesbitt is preparing for a week-end-long siege in the legislative buildings in an attempt to prevent workmen from laying red vinyl tile in the stately corridors.

Yesterday he threatened to take a sleeping bag to the buildings and stay there throughout the weekend if Works Minister W. N. Chant refused to delay the job until Premier Bennett returns next Wednesday.

At last word Mr. Chant hadn't made up his mind.

The battle of the tiles, launched in this column three days ago, yesterday picked up steam with all major B.C. daily newspapers suddenly climbing on the bandwagon.

The trouble began earlier this week when men tore up the beautiful ceramic-tiles in the corridors surrounding the legislative chamber and prepared for the laying of lino-type tiles.

The new tiling is completely out of character with the dignity and appearance of the stately buildings.

A strong ally was found in Premier Bennett who, when the matter was brought to his attention, ordered an immediate investigation.

Works department officials promised the premier's executive assistant, Dan Ekman, nothing more would be done to the floors until the premier returned next week.

But yesterday, as soon as the premier was out of town, workmen went back on the job.

The press gallery sent an urgent wire to Premier Bennett, on a Pacific Great Eastern Railway train heading north. They asked for a "stay of execution."

Mr. Chant was unswayed.

He said the vinyl tile would look very nice and besides, it was so much cheaper. The minister said ceramic tiles would cost five times as much.

Said one of his senior officers: "If they give us the money we'll be happy to lay gold-plated tiles."

Even U.S. tourists got into the act.

"It's terrible," said Carlton Moss, educational film producer and writer from Los Angeles.

"Every effort should be made to sustain the original character of buildings like these," he said. "You're destroying part of your heritage. You're losing the tradition of these buildings."

Despite the protests and orders from Premier Bennett's office it's almost a certain bet that the shocking red lino tiles will be down in the corridors by the time workers come to the buildings at 8:30 a.m. Monday—unless Jim Nesbitt is successful in his one-man stand.

WRONG NUMBER: Motorcycle constable wheeled alongside an old Pontiac parked outside the Colonial office yesterday and, with a fiendish grin, began writing a ticket.

"Wonder what Peter Bruton will say about me for giving him a ticket?" he asked a bystander.

Still chuckling, he put the blue slip under the wiper and chugged off on his rounds.

Hate to spoil his fun, but the other day I traded my old Pontiac in on a newer model. The car he ticketed was that of Colonial city hall reporter Ted MacIsaac.

INSTANT ITEM: The new styles have women with dresses up to their knees and their husbands in debt up to their necks.

Scurrah Ruling

Police Will Chalk Away

City police are breaking the law in putting chalk marks on the tires of cars and slipping parking tickets under windshield wipers, Mayor Percy Scurrah said last night.

Chief magistrate of Victoria and chairman of Victoria police commission, Mayor Scurrah added police will not be told to stop the practices.

"Technically, it is a trespass," he said. "A very narrow technicality. But if it is a trespass, what is the damage?"

Mayor Scurrah was commenting on a unanimous decision by the Ontario Court of Appeals which said police have no legal right to chalk the tires of legally parked cars. It added that motorists have the right to use force to stop police chalking their cars.

"If it became an issue, then the police would have to devise new ways to mark a car," Mayor Scurrah said. "They could put a chalk mark on the road in front of the car or behind it."

"It requires an amendment to the provincial Motor Vehicles Act to make it legal, but we are not planning to ask the government for an amendment."

In the Ontario case, a Toronto motorist hit a policeman to stop him chalking a tire on his car.

Mayor Scurrah said City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady will be asked to keep an eye on the Ontario situation.

Law Being Broken

Up to late last night no Greater Victoria motorists were reported as using physical force to prevent police or commissionaires marking their tires, but one did add a sign to his left rear fender.

In bold lettering it reads:

"POLICE: DO NOT CHALK TIRES."

An official of the provincial attorney-general's office said he was surprised at the Ontario court decision.

"It is possible that unless the motorist objects it is not illegal," he said. "Perhaps a motorist may, in parking in a zone of this sort, be considered to be giving this authority."

College girls interested in the new Omega Chapter of the social-service club, Phrateres, are Lorna Fletcher, Barbara Hindmarch, Wendy Le Mare, Nan Gregory and Elizabeth Fuller.

Phrateres, Social-Service Club Forms Omega Chapter at College

"Famous for Friendliness" is the motto of Phrateres, an international social-service club forming this year at Victoria College. During the summer months, an organizational committee of girls interested in beginning a service club has been meeting weekly, and a tentative program for the coming year has been drawn up. Included are an introduction tea, an unusual campaign during Frosh week, college service projects, and an autumn formal, initiation of new members and a spring formal.

An initiation banquet will be held in October, when members from Vancouver and Los Angeles will attend Omega Chapter's installation. Lorna Fletcher is organizing the club at college and is in charge of Frosh regulations.

Mainland Home for Newlyweds

After their wedding ceremony in St. Saviour's Anglican Church recently, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. William John Allen spent a honeymoon up-Island, in the interior of British Columbia and Alberta, before travelling to Prince George, where they have made their home.

Rev. Douglas Kendall officiated at the evening ceremony in which Miss Loreen Marie Roach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Roach, 1173 Munro Street, became the bride of Mr. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, 2580 First Avenue, Prince George.

For the ceremony the bride wore an ivory and pale peach satin brocade gown with waltz-length skirt, scoop neckline and three-quarter sleeves. She wore a white bandeau hat with short veil, and carried a white carnation bouquet.

Miss Anita Roach was her sister's only attendant, in a royal blue brocade gown with matching bandeau and bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom had Mr. Ian McKenzie as best man, and ushers were Mr. Edward Allen, brother of the groom, and Mr. Gary Roach, brother of the bride.

A small reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where Mr. E. E. Stewart proposed the toast to the bride, his niece. A four-tier wedding cake made by Mrs. A. A. Paterson, a friend of the groom's family, was cut by the newlyweds.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Miss Janice Allen, Mr. Louis Bertschi, Mr. Albert Bertschi, Mr. Fred Luthi, Mr. John Wasyluk, Mr. John Zogas and Mr. and Mrs. Ian McKenzie of Prince George, and Miss Anita Pearce of Vancouver.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Readers: This is a warning. If you happen to see a dark-eyed, lovable little cocker spaniel on the street—don't kick him. It may be Eddie Fisher.

Ever since I printed the letter from the woman who claimed her dog sings along with Mitch I have received hundreds of letters from readers who insist that their dog has been singing for years, and they never thought a thing about it. It makes me wonder about the boxer we had a few years ago. He didn't sing a note—just sat around eating pounds of expensive meat.

Here are some samples of the most astonishing mail I have seen in ages:

From Boston: "So her dog sings along with Mitch, does he? Big deal. Our rat terrier gave up popular music when he was six months old. When the kids play rock and roll Hercules barks and whines until they turn it off. Leonard Bernstein is his favorite."

From Flint, Michigan: "Our toy poodle not only sings but she dances. My wife had a pair of ballet slippers made for Baby and whenever she hears music she wants to dance to. Baby goes to her basket, gets the ballet slippers and brings them to us."

From Calgary, Alberta: "Our dog has been singing since he was a puppy. Two years ago he began to harmonize with radio vocalist, Dean Martin is the one he does best with."

at night until we have said our prayers. She folds her paws, puts her head down and stays in that position until after I've said 'Amen'."

From Chicago: "I was surprised that you made so much hullabaloo about a dog who sings. You realize, I'm sure, that the dog doesn't actually sing. He merely registers his discomfort when certain sounds hurt his ears. If you want to see something unusual you should see our schnauzer. He plays the piano. When I say 'play something, Fritz' he hops on the bench and pounds out a tune."

Pittsburgh, Penna.: "I don't see anything so unusual about a dog who sings. We have a pet squirrel who plays drums. We started out to teach him by letting him pound the drums with a nut in each paw. Now he doesn't even need the nuts. He just pounds away and his sense of rhythm is as good as some professionals."

(Aside to Pittsburgh Reader: Does Jimmy Petrillo know about this?)

at night until we have said our prayers. She folds her paws, puts her head down and stays in that position until after I've said 'Amen'."

Novel Shower Parties

A miscellaneous shower was held recently when friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Jacques Godsmark on Granite Street to honor Miss Linda Pettersen, whose marriage to Sub-Lieut. T. Essery takes place today. The bride-to-be was taken by complete surprise when, upon answering a knock at her front door, she was placed "under arrest," taken into custody and driven to Granite Street where she was "handed over" to shower guests. There she was presented with a crystal basket of sweetheart roses by Martin Godsmark as a "thank you" gift for her years of babysitting. Gordon Godsmark presented Mrs. J. Pettersen with a similar basket.

While Miss Pettersen opened her many gifts, confetti from balloons overhead drifted down upon her. Pink dahlias and silver candelabra, holding white candles, centred the lace-covered refreshment table. Invited guests were Mrs. A. Pettersen, Mrs. J. Davies, Miss W. Godsmark, Mrs. Tison, Mrs. Barr, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. W. Jeanes, Mrs. L. Blackwell, Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. C. Errington and Mrs. J. Pettersen.

Mrs. B. Beere, 1019 Roslyn Road, and her daughter, Miss Myrre Beere, honored Miss Pettersen with a cup and saucer shower. Gifts were wheeled in on a decorated tea wagon. A three-tier bride's cake, topped with a miniature cup and saucer, was flanked with matching candles on the tea table. Guests were Mrs. J. Howell, Mrs. J. Pettersen, Mrs. D. Pettersen, Mrs. P. Marges, Mrs. M. Thomson, Misses Susan Dillabough, Louanne Elliott, Maureen Carey, Patti Holtum, Bonnie Maltman and Sara McKinnon.

Guild Plans Harvest Supper

St. Matthias Ladies' Evening Guild met recently with Mrs. David Brown in the chair. Mrs. E. F. Rowley reported on plans for the harvest supper to be held on Tuesday, Oct. 3. Members of the guild will serve a turkey dinner, and later in the evening the church choir will present an original musical entertainment.

The president reported that installation of pews purchased by the guild for the church gallery, is nearly completed. Mrs. E. Barwood will convene a rummage sale to be held in the Parish Hall on Oct. 24.

Next meeting will be a work bee on Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 8 p.m. in the Fireside Room of the Parish Hall.

Kentop-Pomeroy Wedding

Miss Carol Marie Pomeroy, who has been living in New York and Bermuda for the past few years, returned home to Victoria recently to be married.

Miss Pomeroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pomeroy, 1235 Montrose Avenue, exchanged wedding vows with Mr. Donald Michael Kentop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kentop of Brooklyn, N.Y., in a ceremony in St. Luke's Church, with Rev. A. D. B. Ragg officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the charming bride wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned with a gracefully pleated skirt extending to form a train. The bodice was styled with portrait neckline and lily-point sleeves. At the neckline she wore an heirloom cameo. She wore a chapel-length veil with pearl tulle, and carried white roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Jack Howes, who wore a peach brocade, full-length gown with feathered bandeau and bouquet of carnations en tulle.

Best man was brother-in-law of the bride, Mr. Jack Howes, and usher, Mr. Clive Watson. Guests were received at a reception at Holyrood House after the ceremony. Pink gladiolus decorated the rooms. A three-tier white cake, in a mist of tulle, was decorated with white heather and miniature roses. Mr. E. E. Corbett proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For her going-away costume, the bride donned a green wool suit with green feather hat and black accessories.

After a honeymoon at Quallum Beach Inn, the newlyweds left for Petersburg, Virginia, to make their home.

Out-of-town guests here for the ceremony were Miss Teresa

Dowling, Bellingham, Wash.; Mrs. M. G. Allen, Jussita, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Howes, North Surrey; Mrs. E. Maher and Mrs. E. Brynjolfsson, of Vancouver.

Reception at Home Follows Ceremony

Rev. Turpin officiated at a ceremony in Esquimalt United Church recently when Miss Shirley Mae Hauser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hauser, 618 Nelson Street, became the bride of Mr. Gary David Millard, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Millard, 1205 Walnut Street.

For the ceremony the bride wore a white ballerina-length gown, dainty chapel veil, and a silver locket. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Joy Hauser. Best man was Mr. Dave Frampton, and ushers, Mr.

Don Hauser and Mr. Malcolm Mitchell.

At the bride's parents' home after the ceremony, guests were received. Roses and chrysanthemums decorated the bride's table, which was centered with a three-tier wedding cake. Her great grandmother's table cloth covered the table.

Leaving for a honeymoon to Vancouver the bride wore a beige suit with brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Millard have made their home at 1325 Fort Street.

A. E. Housman, the great English poet, who died in 1936, was also a famous classical scholar and master of Latin.

Oppose Stiffer Punishment For Juvenile Delinquents

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women who have studied the question appear unanimous in their opposition to suggestions that Vancouver's current wave of juvenile violence be met with stiffer punishment.

"The more stringent the rules, the greater the challenge to break them," says Inspector Nancy Hewitt of the Vancouver city police.

"Humiliation won't cure anything," says Mrs. George Chandler, president of Vancouver Council of Women. "It only widens the gap between young people and the adult world. Gaining the confidence of youngsters is more important than punishing them."

"The youngster who is punished is either a hero or a martyr to his pals," said Mrs. Mary Good, mother of two teenage sons.

THE KEY

All said parental influence is the key to juvenile behavior. "Nine out of 10 women in Oakalla jail tell me they had no home life at all—this is the largest contributing factor," says Brigadier Mrs. Marjorie Bamsey of the Salvation Army.

Former alderman Mrs. Anna Spratt said the importance of family influence is that it establishes standards of conduct which the child feels he must live up to, the feeling that some things "just aren't done."

UNDERSTANDING

But parental control is not just a question of maintaining stern discipline throughout a youngster's upbringing, says social worker Mrs. Kay Belanger of the city's Family Service Bureau.

"Youthful troubles can be caused by too little control during the early years or too much control without the proper relationship in later years," she said. "Excessive control over teenagers can cause feelings of resentment."

Most are in agreement with laying charges against parents of delinquent juveniles in certain cases.

"But this would only work with parents who had pride," said Mrs. Lewis Horan, president of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Association. "Those who don't care to begin with certainly wouldn't be shamed into caring."

BLAMES CARS

"If the charge is laid to help the parents help the youngster, it would be a good idea," said Mrs. Good. "If it is just to punish the parents, it would be no help to them or to the youngster."

Mrs. Lawrence Kilham, a mother of seven children between seven and 22, favored raising the minimum age for drivers to 18 from 16. She said cars are the root of at least

Pierre Cardin's "Domino" look for late day wear is shown here in almond green "Terylene" and worsted crepe. The slim sheath dress is sleeveless with a high straight neckline in front plunging to just above the waistline in the back. Attached at the shoulders is a very full, easy-flowing cape in the same fabric. This dress was included in his autumn collection.

Last Evening

Bride Carol Palmason In Traditional Gown

On the arm of her stepfather, Mr. T. O'D. Walton, tall and slender Miss A. Carol Lynn Palmason proceeded up the aisle at St. Luke's Anglican Church Friday evening. At the altar she was given in marriage to Mr. Terry B. Mesher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Mesher of Little Eldon Place. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. T. O'D. Walton, 1780 Glastonbury Road.

Rev. David Ragg, assisted by Canon R. Willis, officiated at the ceremony.

Miss Palmason wore a gown of white pure silk bombazine with cameo neckline outlined with lace and seed pearls. Her tiny waist was emphasized with drapery which cascaded to a long, bouffant skirt flowing into a cathedral train. Sleeves were long and lily pointed. Tiny covered buttons down the back met two beautiful roses centred with seed pearls.

RJH Auxiliary Plans Bazaar

Motif of a forthcoming bazaar will be "carousel." Junior Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital will hold their bazaar to raise money to purchase a "Circal-Electric" bed for the hospital. This was announced at the recent meeting over which Mrs. K. W. L. Scafe presided. Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, hospital board member, reported on their activities, stressing advanced plans of the new wing, and Thriftshop convener reported $30 raised from the sale of golf balls collected by "Sketer," the English pointer owned by Mr. Ernie Todd.

Lutherans Largest Protestant Family

NEW YORK (AP)—Lutherans, the world's largest family of Protestants, now number 72,588,559.

The new total, compiled by the Lutheran World Federation headquarters in Geneva, represents a 1,500,000-member gain over last year.

There are about 155,000,000 Protestants of various other denominations, including:

- 45,000,000 Presbyterians and Reformed Church members.
- 25,000,000 Baptists.
- 20,000,000 Methodists.
- 40,000,000 Episcopalians and Anglicans.
- 5,000,000 Congregationalists.

20,000,000 in various other groups.
 Altogether the total is nearly 228,000,000 Protestants.
 Eastern Orthodox membership total about 200,000,000. There are about 500,000,000 Roman Catholics.

 Over-all, Christians number more than 900,000,000 in a world of almost 3,000,000,000. There are about 430,000,000 Moslems, 150,000,000 Buddhists and 330,000,000 Hindus.

The words "Christian Church" are spelled out by Vicar Martin Hewitt, left, and Pastor John Beyer, who are to conduct a service in sign language in Hope Lutheran Church, Sunday.

Service In Signs Planned

A sermon will be given in sign language in Victoria this Sunday, for the benefit of deaf persons.
 Rev. John Beyer, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church for the Deaf, in Seattle, will be in charge of the service at Hope Lutheran Church, Chambers and Princess, at 7:30 p.m. Accompanying Mr. Beyer will be student-pastor Vicar Martin Hewitt, of Norwich, N.Y., who will come to Victoria periodically during the next 12 months while serving a deaf congregation in Vancouver.

First United Resuming Full Services

Full church services will be resumed this Sunday at First United Church, with both church and Sunday school services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and church at 7:30 p.m.
 There will also be baby crèche and nursery supervision at morning services.
 Rev. A. L. Higgins will preach at both morning services and Rev. Stanley F. Sears in the evening.
 Mr. Higgins will conduct adult communicants classes Sept. 17 and 24 at 8:30 p.m. in the main floor of the Sunday school hall.

Coho Bite in Inlet

Now is the time to try for coho in Saanich Inlet. Brentwood fishing guide Jim Gilbert reports a good concentration of the flitting silvers between McKenzie Bay and the Stone House.

Two coho were brought in on bucktail flies Thursday morning, and the conventional lures for Saanich Inlet were catching them during the rest of the day.

Routes in Dispute

Ottawa Campaign For U.S. Skies Left Up in Air

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may have to bide its time before pressing ahead with its new bid for a better deal on air routes into the United States.

High-level air talks between the two countries, originally scheduled for the "near" future, now appear to be somewhere ahead in the "indefinite" future, aviation authorities say.

SECOND ROUND

This could mean the second round of bilateral air negotiations that started in June in Washington may be stalled until next year, dashing Canadian hopes of a meeting in Ottawa this fall.

The trouble is Canada is just one of at least 10 nations trying to win greater freedom in the sky from the Americans through let-age agreements to replace outdated arrangements from the propeller era.

NEW PROPOSAL

Canada has laid a brand new proposal before the Americans—a scheme that would ease Canada-U.S. air relations in a set of principles reflecting the unique position of the two neighboring countries.

It is understood the Canadian proposal would, in effect, wipe away much of the tariff-for-bargaining that dominates world air route negotiations.

The Americans view the idea coldly. They are believed to prefer the old-style horse-trading.

The difficulty is that Canada has no more horses to trade. All its major cities are served by U.S. airlines while Canadian carriers are restricted for the most part to hope to U.S. centres just across the border.

TRADE RELATIONS

The Canadian proposals are understood to have been framed against the general background of trade and economic relations.

If the U.S. were to accept them, it would permit Canada to press for the right to fly to such key cities as Miami, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dallas, Salt Lake City and Washington.

SPECIAL STUDIES

The U.S. answer is to come when the talks resume but it may be delayed until a number of special aviation studies now under way in the U.S. are completed, including a major review of international air policy requested by President Kennedy.

A similar review of Canada's international air policy is before the cabinet but an early decision is not anticipated. This review was prepared by the Air Transport Board.

Jane's Daughter Replaces Mother

LONDON (CP) — Three women dominated the lives of last. Most Allied servicemen fighting in Europe during the Second World War—Lili Marlene, the girl they left behind and a paper doll called Jane.

Confined to her comic-strip world in London's mass-circulation Daily Mirror, Jane was often more loyal and rewarding than any fickle-minded real live girl.

Nubile, nimble and enticingly single, she was the sweetheart of a million men under arms, and a vivid symbol of the things worth fighting for.

Jane's greatest talent, whether playing bachelorette-girl detective or lady spy, was to appear continually in various stages of undress without ever violating the laws of taste and decency. Fresh and essentially innocent, she was an angel hovering above the hell of war.

When the war ended, Jane's popularity faded. On Oct. 3, 1950, she passed out of sight forever, virtually ignored by a generation that didn't need her any more. Rumor had it she

Russia Still Depends On Men with Bombs

OTTAWA (UPI) — Manned bombers still would form the "main weight" of any Soviet air attack on North America, Defence Minister Harkness said Friday.

"We have good reason to believe the number of inter-continental missiles Russia has to launch an attack on this continent is limited," he told the Commons.

Harkness made the statement in reply to opposition arguments that purchase of a new U.S.-made interceptor for continental defence refuted former Defence Minister Pearson's view the bomber threat would be "virtually eliminated" by 1962. Gen. Pearson made that statement in 1959 in justifying cancellation of the Avro Arrow program.

"Whatever may have been said by Gen. Pearson in 1959, the bomber threat does exist," said Harkness. "All western governments acknowledge this fact."

He said the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases at North Bay, Ont., and Macaj, Que., won't be in full operation until 1963.

The recent Moscow air show showed the Soviet Union was developing more modern supersonic bombers, he said. Development of "stand-off" bombing techniques, involving discharge of an air-to-ground missile from manned aircraft, may prolong the situation.

Car-Theft Operation Cracked

HAMILTON (CP) — A huge car-theft operation, believed to involve automobiles worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, has been cracked by Hamilton and Toronto police. Nine cars have already been impounded and officials said, Friday they expected to recover many more.

Australia Orders Our Sonar

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Australian navy has ordered Canada's variable depth sonar submarine detection equipment, Defence Production Minister Raymond O'Hurley said yesterday.

He said the Australian government had submitted an order for the supply to the Royal Australian Navy of two complete systems and spares worth some $600,000.

Police Claim Poll Rake-Off

QUEBEC (CP) — Former Quebec liquor police officers told a Quebec court Friday they worked for the Union Nationale and the Progressive Conservative parties in provincial and federal general elections, but were paid with public funds by the Quebec Liquor Commission.

One officer of the now disbanded force told of driving a nurse to religious institutions in a constituency during a federal election. He was paid a $6 a day allowance and 10 cents a mile for his car.

The nurse told him, he testified, that her job was to ask Roman Catholic nuns to cast their votes in favor of State Secretary Noel Dorion, the Conservative candidate in Bellechasse riding, on the St. Lawrence River south shore. The former liquor police officers, several of them now on the provincial police force, said they worked for periods of from a few days to several weeks in the provincial ridings of Gaspé South, the Magdalen Islands, Lotbinière, Nicolet and Matane.

The evidence closed the Crown's case at the preliminary hearing of Rosario Lemire, 73-year-old former Quebec district director of the Quebec Liquor Police, who with two other men is charged with defrauding the public and the government of more than $300,000.

Nelson Gets New Title

NELSON (CP) — Greater Nelson became an official reality Thursday.

A crowd of hundreds saw Lieutenant-Governor Pearson present the city's supplementary letters patent to Mayor T. S. Shorthouse.

The act was a final step in amalgamation of three suburban areas.

The mayor made Mr. Pearson the sixth freeman of the city.

Sidney Spit

Confused Son Found After Hungry Night

A misunderstanding of rendezvous points between a father and son fishing team Thursday resulted in George Jones, 19, of Slocum Indian Reserve near Sidney, spending a cold and hungry night on Sidney Spit.

Alfred George, 8 Maplebank Road, said he found Jones at about 8:30 a.m. yesterday at Sidney Spit after "a number of fishing boats" and RCMP began an extensive search of the Gulf Islands.

"He and his father Sandy Jones had been fishing near Moresby Island for four days and George left at 1 p.m. Thursday in a 14-foot boat to try for cono," he said.

The rendezvous point was scheduled for a cove near Moresby Island but George apparently thought it was Sidney Island, the rescuer added.

Apart from being hungry and cold Jones was "in good shape," he said.

Christmas Too Early

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — A wildcat strike by some 300 distillery workers has crippled production at the William Walker & Sons Ltd. distillery here.

President Ross Stubbington of Local 61 of the United Distillery Workers blamed "a Christmas speed-up" for the walkout. The union complained the company was operating its bottling line "like a kid with a new electric train" and had doubled production to meet Christmas demand.

Peace Power Roadmen 'Not Wasting a Minute'

Fatal Shot Blamed On Scuffle

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A man accused of murder told an Assize Court jury here Friday the rifle shot which killed 71-year-old William Charles Grant was fired accidentally.

Kenneth Bryson McKee, 36, said Grant grabbed the muzzle of the rifle and it went off while they scuffled.

McKee told the all-male jury he went to Grant's home looking for his wife and took along his rifle to shoot deer or coyotes on the way.

McKee was found guilty of manslaughter. Sentence was deferred.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The multi-million dollar Peace River power project is "for sure and for real," Highways Minister Gagliardi declared Friday.

He told the associated boards of trade of north-central B.C. there is $2,000,000 worth of equipment already busy building access roads to serve the big hydro project.

"We aren't wasting a minute on the 14-mile access road between Hudson Hope village and the dam site," he said. "We have already built 12 miles. We also are building two trunk roads to the spot."

ONE from the Alaska Highway near Fort St. John and the other from north of the Hart Highway at Chetwynd which will probably be the main route for equipment and supplies to the dam site.

He said these roads will be ready in time to start work on the Peace pilot tunnel by mid-October.

All-Out Battle Explodes in The Congo

Martial
Law
Declared

ELIZABETHVILLE (UPI) — The battle for Elisabethville exploded into all-out war yesterday with casualties estimated in excess of 1,000. The United Nations declared martial law and announced that any unauthorized civilians bearing arms would be executed.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe vowed a war to the death but the UN-controlled Radu Katanga said last night he was on his way to talk with Conor O'Brien, UN civilian chief here, on the deteriorating situation.

PLANES SENT

Both Tshombe and O'Brien have tried in the past to reach a ceasefire and save the deteriorating situation.

In the meantime Tshombe sent planes and armored cars against United Nations troops in Elisabethville, Jadotville, 85 miles to the northwest, and Kamina, 100 miles to the north. The United Nations sent out urgent calls for reinforcements.

In Stockholm, the Swedish defence ministry reported its troops at Kamina were attacked by a heavily-armed unit.

Katanga gendarme, wounded in the fighting in Elisabethville, is carried to safety.

Shocked Ireland
May Pull Troops

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish Premier Sean Lemass indicated last night that Irish troops may be pulled out of The Congo.

Lemass sent Frank Aiken, minister for external affairs, to Katanga to investigate the situation. There was increasing anxiety here as reports continued of Irish troops being involved in heavy fighting with several casualties.

The Katanga issue was expected to play a leading part in the campaign for national elections Oct. 4. The campaign opens today.

Lemass said Ireland's 1,000 soldiers in The Congo were not sent to the United Nations force "to impose any particular solution on The Congo. They were sent on the understanding that the function of the force would be to preserve order," he said.

But the premier said any decision on the future of the Irish troops would have to wait the report of Aiken and a UN statement requested by Ireland on the background of the Katanga fighting.

UN Official's Recall
Demanded in Dublin

DUBLIN (UPI) — Recall of Ireland's Conor O'Brien, UN official involved in The Congo fighting, was demanded here by Senator Patrick Quinlan.

He told Premier Sean Lemass, Irish blood was being spilled to bring Catholic Katanga under the heel of the pink regime in Leopoldville, and accused O'Brien of using "Black and Tan" methods in Katanga.

WE'LL USE FORCE
KENNEDY WARNS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Friday the United States is "prepared to meet force with force" if necessary to save the freedom of West Berlin.

'Only Hope
Is UN'

TORONTO (CP) — Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon said Thursday night he believes the only alternative to nuclear war over the Berlin issue is the possibility of United Nations action there. "I happen to be one who does not believe that either the Western powers or the Soviet Union are bluffing in Berlin," he told the biennial convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America CLC.

"Both the East and the West have committed so much in Berlin that they have almost no bargaining power left."

Reds Won't
Pull Punches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) warned yesterday that if either the United States or Russia starts losing a war over Berlin it will resort to every nuclear weapon at its disposal. "I think we're just hiding our heads in the sand if we're content to say that it will not result in a nuclear war," Sparkman said.

Nancy Rips Japan
U.S. Eyes Esther

TOKYO (Reuters) — First onslaugth of Typhoon Nancy lashed Japan's southern island Friday, leaving four persons dead, 11 missing and 48 injured. A Greek freighter with 28 aboard was adrift in the typhoon's centre.

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. scientists may make weather history against huge Hurricane Esther, now 1,000 miles away. They'll seed Esther with ice-producing chemicals, killing its heat energy and 120-miles-an-hour winds.

U.S. A-Test 'Clean'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States resumed nuclear weapons tests after a 34½-month lapse yesterday with a low-power, fallout-free underground shot at the Nevada proving ground.

The shot signalled the beginning of a new phase of the free world's atomic arms race with Russia.

Experts said yesterday's test was designed to perfect small battlefield weapons against an enemy's troops rather than its cities. Among such weapons is the army's bazooka-like Davy Crockett, which had never been proof-tested.

It was the first U.S. atomic explosion since Oct. 30, 1958. The U.S. has spent the years since then in a vain attempt to obtain an enforceable international ban against all nuclear weapons tests.

The Nevada explosion, set off in a shot chamber deep in a mesa of volcanic rock, came 14 days after the Russians abruptly resumed fallout-producing atmospheric tests of vastly larger weapons.

It also came just 10 days after President Kennedy announced the Soviet action would force the U.S. to resume development of nuclear arms.

In his announcement of the test, Kennedy again called on the Russians to negotiate a new test ban agreement.

The president said the shot was designed to "strengthen the defence of the free world."

U.K. Backs
A-Tests

LONDON (UPI) — The foreign office said last night that Britain "fully supports" the resumption of underground nuclear testing by the United States.

It said the U.S. "could obviously not ignore large scale resumption by the Russians of nuclear testing."

Latest Round
To Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Senate yesterday overwhelmingly backed President Kennedy's foreign aid fight by rejecting virtually all House slashes and voting $4,200,000,000 for overseas assistance.

The money bill, approved 62 to 17, now goes back to the House where it faces a stiff new fight.

Bandits Kill
23 Mexicans

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Armed bands attacked several villages in southeast Mexico yesterday, and police reported 23 deaths.

Replying to a plea from non-aligned countries for a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting to solve the mounting Berlin crisis, the president held the door open for a summit conference provided "careful advance preparations show it would have a reasonable chance of success."

MOST FORTHRIGHT

But "we do not intend to enter into negotiations under ultimatums or threats," he said. The White House issued Kennedy's statement — his most forthright yet on U.S. fight-if-necessary determination — as the Big Four Western foreign ministers held the second round in a three-day Berlin strategy conference ending today.

MINISTERS MEET

Dean Rusk, Britain's Lord Home, France's Couve de Murville and West Germany's Von Brentano spent a total of 4½ hours in discussions at the state department morning and afternoon.

IN OCTOBER?

The Western policymakers were reported to have agreed that an East-West foreign ministers' conference on Berlin should be held in October or November should Rusk get promising results from his New York meeting next week with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

TO STAND PAT

But if Rusk gets no clue from Gromyko that the Communists will offer something the West can negotiate on, then the Western powers were described as prepared to stand fast on Berlin without East-West talks — come what may.

TO SET GROUND WORK

If the East-West foreign ministers' conference does come about, this was seen as possibly setting the ground work for a later meeting between Khrushchev and the Western government heads.

Informants said Couve de Murville retained France's coolness toward any hurry-up approach to East-West negotiations but did not object to Rusk's sounding out of Gromyko on his own.

BERLIN DISCUSSED

Official sources said the Western policymakers concentrated on counter measures to be taken against any further Communist move against West Berlin.

The government said the package contained an explosive wired to batteries. The bomb was rigged to detonate upon opening of the wrappings.

Bomb Sent To Adenauer

BONN, Germany (AP) — German security officials yesterday intercepted a bomb in a package addressed in Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The government said the package contained an explosive wired to batteries. The bomb was rigged to detonate upon opening of the wrappings.

Arrest, Deportation
Faces East Germans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government official reported yesterday that the United States has received information the East German Communist regime is planning "the arrest and mass deportation" of Germans living along the Communist side of the Berlin and East German boundaries.

Air Incidents
Raise Tension
In West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Concern rose yesterday over use of the vital Western airways to Berlin after two West German fighters blundered into the city and Soviet MiG jets shadowed two U.S. commercial airliners.

Communist East Germany called the landing of the two West German F-4 jet fighters in the French sector Thursday "a monstrously provocative act." In a statement, the East Germans charged the two pilots were on a spying mission.

PROTEST FILED

At about the same time, the American airlines flying from Berlin to Hamburg were either shadowed or buzzed by Soviet MiG jet fighters. The United States filed a vigorous protest with the Soviet representative at the Berlin Air Safety Centre.

CASE DISCUSSED

The case of the two West German pilots, who said they lost their way on a training mission and landed at Tegel airport, also was discussed at the Air Safety Centre. This is one of the few remaining occupation establishments in which the Russians still cooperate. After a three-hour meeting, an Allied officer said "there is nothing to worry about."

Won't Ask
For More

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's teachers will not be seeking general salary increases this year and will not ask for more money to compensate for the longer school day, Kenneth Altchison, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, said Friday.

The federation does not set salary policy for teachers. Each local teachers' association determines its own demands.

"Teachers regard the present economic situation as a plateau period," Mr. Altchison said.

LONDON (CP) — The Economist says the "loud cries" at the Commonwealth finance ministers conference in Accra over Britain's decision to apply for Common Market membership should be considered as "a preliminary to serious horse trading."

The London weekly adds: "The loud cries of anguish have their part in setting the stage for the detailed bargaining ahead."

"When the Canadian ministers decide that Britain will find it against its own interest to join the Common Market, and shouldn't be tempted anyway because it would be unfair to the Commonwealth, their protests should be taken as a routine move in raising their initial bargaining bid."

ACCRA (Reuters) — British treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd said Friday night Britain's entry into the Common Market depends on receiving guarantees in the interest of the Commonwealth.

War Scare Puts Families to Flight

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — A group of nuclear war scare refugees from the New York metropolitan area will begin their journey to California today as scheduled, despite the fact their chosen small town sanctuary has been dubbed a "prime target" by one civil defence official.

Alvin Bauman, spokesman of the group of 20 families, said they "knew all along" that a Titan intercontinental missile base was being built near Chico, Calif., the spot they picked to escape blast and fallout in case of nuclear attack. "Of course, Chico would have been more attractive from our point of view if it didn't have the Titan base," Bauman said. "We took it into consideration in our planning."

But Bauman said he disagreed with Ed Lewis, information director for the California disaster office, in his evaluation of Chico as a "prime target."

"It's all relative," Bauman said. "And relative to the New York area, Chico is safer."

Bauman said the 20 families included about 50 men, women and children. About five families will leave with him by car today for Chico and the rest will join them there later. They already have leased 12 homes in Chico.

Artists, teachers and businessmen are represented in the group. Bauman said "a few" of the refugees lean toward Zen Buddhism and have adopted certain dietary habits prescribed by the Japanese scholar Dr. George Oshawa.

Population Down 723

Scurrah Challenges Ottawa Over Census Blow to City

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday threw down the gauntlet and prepared to join in battle with federal census officials over their claim the city's population has shrunk 723 in the past five years.

"I challenge that most emphatically," he said. "In 1956 we had 7,982 school children in the city and in 1961 we have 8,458."

"In addition to that there has been millions of dollars in building in the city, especially many apartment buildings. Most of them are 70 per cent filled."

"It doesn't make sense to me that, with the number of houses and apartments that have been built and the scarcity of empty houses, the figures could be correct."

Preliminary census figures released yesterday gave Vic-

torian's 1961 population as 53,861, compared with 54,584 in 1956.

Building figures over the past five years—from the beginning of 1956 to the middle of 1961—show 677 single family houses, 130 duplex-type houses and 812 apartments.

But while Mayor Scurrah was unhappy with the preliminary figures, civic leaders in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt were pleased.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, acting reeve, felt Saanich's figure was very gratifying. The census showed Saanich's population increased by 2,787, to 48,145 in 1961 from 45,358 in 1956.

Healthy Increase

"The increase is something most of us anticipated," he said.

"If provincial government grants remain the same on a per capita basis there will be a healthy increase."

But Coun. Passmore supported Mayor Scurrah with: "I cannot see how the city has less people than five years ago and he is justified in challenging it."

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay: "It isn't too bad so far as Oak Bay is concerned. We are up about 1,400 (16,295 in 1961, 14,897 in 1956). I think myself some people were misled. Our social assistance costs will be up this year, about as much as we will get from the government's per capita grant."

Esquimalt's population increased to 11,538 in 1961 from 10,384 in 1956 and Reeve Wurtel also suggested some residents were missed. "Esquimalt is a very difficult place to take a census of because of the naval housing. Sometimes people are away and sometimes not."

"I would have said our increase was more than they have put down, but I don't think we should question it. I would like to know how they went about it, but that figure cannot be too far out."

If the low census figure for the city is upheld Victoria stands to lose $4,700 annually in per capita grants from B.C.

But the other three municipalities stand to gain. Saanich's grant will increase to $426,160 a year, from $352,864.

Oak Bay's grant will increase to $176,360 a year, from $164,856.

Esquimalt's grant will increase to $138,288 a year, from $129,072.

The convention will be held in early September, 1962.

'Back-Biters Scuttled' Centennial Mastermind

Hotelman Springs To Dow's Support

By TED PULFORD

The president of the Victoria Hotels Association yesterday sprang to the support of Victoria's Centennial committee co-ordinator William Dow who resigned from his post earlier in the day.

N. W. Renard charged Mr. Dow's plans for a king-sized extravaganza to mark the city's 100th birthday were scuttled by "lack of support, back-biting, interference and no money."

TOLD EVERYONE

"And they humiliated the man into the bargain. They paid him a niggardly salary, then told everyone how much money he was making. They stripped him of what little power he had by turning the whole business over to a lot of little committees."

"The Victoria Hotel Association studied—and liked—Bill Dow's plan for a city centenary to remember. Now the city has scuttled the plans—and the planner—in the same stroke."

SPORADIC GROWLS

Mr. Dow's sudden departure from the centennial stage climaxes several months of sporadic uneasiness within the committees and growls of disapproval from council.

Ald. Millard Mooney, who had blasted Ald. Edgewood for the hiring of Mr. Dow without first placing the vacancy with the city's personnel department, said:

ON WRONG FOOT

"I don't want to say I told you so, but the whole thing got off on the wrong foot from the start. We'll have to work harder than ever now to make our centenary a success, so let's get on with it and hope for the best."

Mr. Dow's successor will be hired through the city personnel department.

Centennial committee chairman Ald. Edgewood, expressing "surprise" at Mr. Dow's resignation, admitted trouble had been brewing for some time.

WASNT ENOUGH

"I think he (Mr. Dow) felt there wasn't enough money available to do the things he wanted to do. I know he thought his program was pretty good."

Ald. Edgewood indicated Mr. Dow had chafed under the restrictions imposed on him by the various subcommittees.

"I guess Bill wasn't used to the close scrutiny any municipally-controlled endeavor is subject to," he said.

OWN AUTHORITY

Mr. Dow indicated his work was hampered by a proliferation of committees.

"Certainly some of the things I did, I had to do on my own authority. Many of them had to be done right away or not at all, and I always acted sincerely in what

I felt to be Victoria's best interest."

"I couldn't always wait for an approval from the committee."

WONDERFUL SHOW

"Maybe my plans were financially staggering, but I was—and am—eager to see the project become a success. If even a quarter of my ideas bear fruit, we would have a wonderful show."

Desk-Clearing

'Copter Service Hearing Set

The year-old application by Okanagan Helicopters to the Air Transport Board for a licence to operate a Vancouver-Victoria helicopter service has been scheduled for a hearing before the board.

The announcement caused a brief flurry of interest in Victoria's business circles until it was learned that the decision to hold the hearing probably stemmed from transport-board desk-clearing, rather than any move by Okanagan Helicopters.

Ian Kennedy, vice-president of the company, said last night that the same factors that stalled introduction of the service a year ago applied today.

They include development of an economical machine, properly instrumented for the flight over the sometimes stormy Strait of Georgia, and a government subsidy.

Mr. Kennedy said the company would be represented at the hearing in Ottawa and was "certainly still interested in the plan."

Along with the Okanagan application, the board will hear applications by B.C. Airlines to extend its Island operations north of Nanaimo and requests for suspensions of several operations zone licences by Pacific Western Airlines.

It is understood that these applications were also submitted to the board some time ago.

We Do Get Wind—That's the Problem

Coldness cannot be measured by a thermometer only, Victoria weatherman William Mackie told Victoria Lions Club yesterday.

He said the lowest temperatures on the continent were recorded at Snag, in the Yukon, where the mercury sometimes dropped to 80 degrees below zero.

NO COLDER

Yet actually the residents of Snag weren't any colder on the average than residents of Toronto.

When the temperature hits zero and a 20-mile-an-hour wind is blowing, it's no warmer than a 30-below temperature with the wind at six miles an hour, he said.

BENT AS GOLD

For that reason it isn't as cold in Snag as it is in, say, Winnipeg, he said.

"That's our problem here in Victoria," said Mr. Mackie. "Regardless of what people say, the wind does blow quite a bit here. This is our famous wind chill."

Minor Injuries

Youngsters Hurt In Two Crashes

Two youngsters suffered minor injuries in separate accidents yesterday, and both were sent home after emergency treatment.

Judy Carlson, 10, of 27 Erie, was riding her bicycle on Michigan, passing a double-parked car, when her machine was in collision with a car driven in the opposite direction by Gwen Lee, 4265 Grange. The girl was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a sore right leg. The accident happened about 8:45 a.m.

Just before 1 p.m. Barry Cragg, 16, of 1756 Lulle, sustained abrasions when the motorcycle on which he was a passenger collided with a car on Gladstone at the entrance to Victoria High School parking area.

Ian Douglas Houston, 2321 Lee, driver of the motorcycle, told police he thought a car ahead, driven by Harold McKenzie, 1921 Ash, was going to park on the right side of the road, and moved to pass.

Instead, the car made a left turn to the school parking lot, and the collision resulted. Cragg was treated for abrasions at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Lie-Down Siege Pledged Against Hated Lino Tile

ILL MET BY MOONLIGHT: Historian-writer James K. Nesbitt is preparing for a week-end-long siege in the legislative buildings in an attempt to prevent workmen from laying red vinyl tile in the stately corridors.

Yesterday he threatened to take a sleeping bag to the buildings and stay there throughout the weekend if Works Minister W. N. Chant refused to delay the job until Premier Bennett returns next Wednesday.

At last word Mr. Chant hadn't made up his mind. The battle of the tiles, launched in this column three days ago, yesterday picked up steam with all major B.C. daily newspapers suddenly climbing on the bandwagon.

The trouble began earlier this week when men tore up the beautiful ceramic tiles in the corridors surrounding the legislative chamber and prepared for the laying of lino-type tiles.

The new tiling is completely out of character with the dignity and appearance of the stately buildings.

A strong ally was found in Premier Bennett who, when the matter was brought to his attention, ordered an immediate investigation.

Works department officials promised the premier's executive assistant, Dan Elmore, nothing more would be done to the floors until the premier returned next week.

But yesterday, as soon as the premier was out of town, workmen went back on the job.

The press gallery sent an urgent wire to Premier Bennett, on a Pacific Great Eastern Railway train heading north. They asked for a "stay of execution."

Mr. Chant was unwavering.

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

He said the vinyl tile would look very nice and besides, it was so much cheaper. The minister said ceramic tiles would cost five times as much. Said one of his senior officers: "If they give us the money we'll be happy to lay gold-plated tiles."

Even U.S. tourists got into the act.

"It's terrible," said Carleton Mann, educational film producer and writer from Los Angeles.

"Every effort should be made to sustain the original character of buildings like these," he said. "You're destroying part of your heritage. You're losing the tradition of these buildings."

Despite the protests and orders from Premier Bennett's office it's almost a certain bet

that the shocking red lino tiles will be down in the corridors by the time workers come to the buildings at 8:30 a.m. Monday—unless Jim Nesbitt is successful in his one-man stand.

Wonder what Peter Bruton will say about me for giving him a ticket? he asked a bystander.

Still chuckling, he put the blue alp under the wiper and chugged off on his rounds.

Hate to spoil his fun, but the other day I traded my old Pontiac in on a newer model. The car he ticketed was that of Colonist city hall reporter Ted Rhinckford!

INSTANT ITEM: The new styles have women with dresses up to their knees and their husbands in debt up to their necks.

Scurrah Ruling

Police Will Chalk Away

City police are breaking the law in putting chalk marks on the tires of cars and slipping parking tickets under windshield wipers, Mayor Percy Scurrah said last night.

Chief magistrate of Victoria and chairman of Victoria police commission, Mayor Scurrah added police will not be told to stop the practices.

"Technically, it is a trespass," he said. "A very narrow technicality. But if it is a trespass, what is the damage?"

Mayor Scurrah was commenting on a unanimous decision by the Ontario Court of Appeal which said police have no legal right to chalk the tires of legally parked cars. It added that motorists have the right to use force to stop police chalking their cars.

"If it became an issue, then the police would have to devise new ways to mark a car," Mayor Scurrah said. "They could put a chalk mark on the road in front of the car or behind it."

"It requires an amendment to the provincial Motor Vehicles Act to make it legal, but we are not planning to ask the government for an amendment."

In the Ontario case, a Toronto motorist hit a policeman to stop him chalking a tire on his car. Mayor Scurrah said City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady will be asked to keep an eye on the Ontario situation.

Law Being Broken

Up to late last night no Greater Victoria motorists were reported as using physical force to prevent police or commissionaires marking their tires, but one did add a sign to his left rear fender.

In bold lettering it reads: "POLICE: DO NOT CHALK TIRES."

An official of the provincial attorney-general's office said he was surprised at the Ontario court decision.

"It is possible that unless the motorist objects it is not illegal," he said. "Perhaps a motorist may, in parking in a zone of this sort, be considered to be giving this authority."

Bus Sought To Protect 44 Students

Trucks a Threat On Somenos Road

DUNCAN—Parents of 44 children destined to walk nearly two and a half miles to Tansor School along a busy road have petitioned Education Minister Leslie Peterson to intervene and do something for them.

They heard from the minister yesterday and are faced with a polite but firm refusal to put on bus transportation as a special dispensation.

The minister pointed out that below the 2 1/2 mile limit the department cannot do a thing to help and he tossed the ball back into the laps of the Cowichan school board. He also made it clear that if a bus is operated by the board, "and they can do so, the cost will have to be borne by the district."

Trustee Pat Mason has already told the board that a bus will cost about $5 a day to operate, but that he still thinks the children should be transported at least along the dangerous section of the road.

Mrs. Cliff Sellars, spokesman for the parents, said yesterday they were "very disappointed" with the minister's reply but fully intend to pursue the matter vigorously. Asked what the next move was likely to be, she said that a meeting of parents would be called as soon as possible to discuss the minister's letter, and another approach would be made to the school board to provide transportation.

The parents believe they have a strong case for special consideration as the road is heavily used by some of the largest vehicles in operation on public roads. Chipper trucks and long, heavy trailer trucks carrying lumber pass along the Somenos Road every few minutes. One operator estimated that one truck passed every seven minutes.

A few yards from the danger spots is another stretch of road which has been a centre of controversy for several years. The first eight miles of the Lake Cowichan Road from Berkeley's Corner are tortuous and narrow with little shoulder upon which to walk, and several approaches have been made to have it straightened, with no result.

Still concerned about the road, upon which a child was recently killed, the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce asked for a traffic count for June and was told this week that 2,466 vehicles were recorded near Berkeley's Corner and of these 1,855 reached Lake Cowichan.

Drowning Victim Tripped

CAMPBELL RIVER—An inquest jury was told here that a man who drowned at Kysnot last Sunday must have tripped and fallen off a fish scow.

Gerald McMunn, Vancouver, was described as being able to swim, but not a strong swimmer. McMunn's body was recovered by scuba divers on Wednesday beneath the scow. The inquest will be resumed Sept. 22.

Probation Violator Jailed

PORT ALBERNI—A Port Alberni man, convicted last February of being in possession of stolen goods, was found guilty yesterday of failing to meet the terms of probation.

Appearing before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod, George Joseph Chalfour, a jeweler, pleaded not guilty but was convicted on evidence given by correction branch officer Kenneth M. Richardson and was remanded in custody until Tuesday for sentence.

When Chalfour was convicted on the possession charge on Feb. 7 of this year, Magistrate MacLeod suspended sentence for three years, ordering probation for two years.

According to the charge laid in police court yesterday, accused had failed to report to the probation officer between June and September.

In giving his verdict of guilty, the magistrate said the accused did not seem to realize the seriousness of the offence.

Fishing Limits Posted

PORT ALBERNI—Triangular boundary signs marking restricted fishing areas are now being placed on several streams in this area, but restrictions will not go into effect until Dec. 15, according to an announcement made by district conservation officer W. Vincent.

The red and white markers are being placed in certain areas of the Nitinat, Sarita and Ash Rivers as well as Kit-sukais and China Creeks.

Mr. Vincent pointed out that the restrictions are mainly for the conservation of game fish and are effective only between Dec. 15 and March 31 inclusive.

He suggested that sportsmen read the pertinent passages of the B.C. sports fishing regulations booklets to familiarize themselves with restrictions.

The early posting is due to the fact that with the pressure of hunting season approaching, personnel of the fish and game branch will soon be otherwise engaged. It was also felt that with the signs in place, anglers would become aware of the restricted areas before they come into effect.

Marshall Funeral Today

DUNCAN—Mrs. Margaret Patrick Marshall, widow of Henry Marshall, who died in 1954, died Thursday at King's Daughters' Hospital in her 88th year.

Mrs. Marshall was born at Kirkcaldy, Scotland, and came from that country to Vancouver in 1928. For the last 10 years she had been a well-known resident of Duncan.

Survivors include four daughters: Mrs. R. E. King, Duncan; Mrs. Q. Gray, Glenora, Scotland; Mrs. Anne Sparks and Mrs. Jean Kerr, Vancouver. There are 16 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Bernard Knipe today at 2:15 p.m. in Duncan, with burial in the family plot, Mt. View Cemetery.

Fishboat Skipper Wins Case

PORT ALBERNI—A charge laid under the Fisheries Act against Ross Anderson of North Surrey was dismissed by Magistrate W. E. MacLeod yesterday morning because jurisdiction had not been proven by the crown.

Anderson, captain of a fishboat, was charged with operating a purse net in open set and pleaded not guilty.

Evidence given by the master of the fisheries patrol vessel Comox Post, D. E. Brooks, indicated that accused's net had been open for six minutes over the 20-minute limit on June 21 in the area of Pocomoxas Rock on Alberni Inlet.

The local officers recommended the maintenance men for insisting "that they be allowed to retain the few remaining rights and privileges enjoyed by the production employees."

IWA Critical

Firm Blamed For Work Loss

PORT ALBERNI—Surprise that there was no outcry here over the fact that 249 people lost 480 man-days of work in the week of Sept. 4 was expressed by officers of Local 1-55 IWA in a release criticizing management of Alberni plywood division of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

According to the officers, 30 people each lost a day's work in the following week also.

The reason for the loss of work was management's insistence that a reduced maintenance crew should continue to install new equipment and take care of additional maintenance created by the new equipment, they contended.

"In this case the blame lies entirely with management inasmuch as they have been attempting to force the reduced maintenance crews to forfeit their days off on weekends to install the new equipment. Installation of this equipment has been declared an emergency by management," the union contends.

"Because the majority of the maintenance crews insisted on their rights to regular rest days after working their regular schedule, management has been using all sorts of feeble excuses to shut down part of the mill, which has resulted in loss of earnings for some of the crew" according to the statement.

Haigh Rites On Monday

ALBERNI—Mrs. Isabella Scott Haigh died suddenly yesterday at her home at 1115 Craig Street.

Born in Scotland 47 years ago, Mrs. Haigh had lived in this district for the past 15 years.

She leaves her husband, John, at home; one son, Robert, Port Alberni; two daughters, Mrs. David McCandless and Mrs. Guss Vereah, both of Port Alberni; three sisters, Mrs. Frank Freeborn, and Mrs. Ralph Ewen, Port Alberni; Mrs. Gordon Blank, Wellington, and one grandchild.

Rites will be held Monday in First Baptist Church, Port Alberni, at 2 p.m. with Rev. Gordon Ashdowne officiating. Burial will be in Alberni Valley Memorial Gardens.

Two Sentenced For $196 Theft

PORT ALBERNI—Roy Charles Marshall, 21, was given six months definite and 12 months indefinite when he appeared for sentence yesterday before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod.

The young man, with Donald James Hennessy, 17, had pleaded guilty to a charge of theft with violence involving the taking of a wallet containing $196.

The younger accused was placed on two years suspended sentence with probation.

1,000 PERISH IN CONGO WAR

Martial Law Declared

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI) — The battle for Elisabethville exploded into all-out war yesterday with casualties estimated in excess of 1,000. The United Nations declared martial law and announced that any unauthorized civilians bearing arms would be executed.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe vowed a war to the death but the UN-controlled Radio Katanga said last night he was on his way to talk with Conor O'Brien, UN civilian chief here, on the deteriorating situation.

PLANES SENT

Both Tshombe and O'Brien have tried in the past to reach a cease-fire and save the deteriorating situation.

In the meantime Tshombe sent planes and armored cars against United Nations troops in Elisabethville, Jadotville, 65 miles to the northwest, and Kamina airfield in Northern Katanga. The United Nations sent out urgent calls for reinforcements.

A Stockholm, the Swedish defence ministry reported its troops at Kamina were attacked by a heavily armed unit.

Shocked Ireland May Pull Troops

SEAN LEMASS
... anxiety grows

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish Premier Sean Lemass indicated last night that Irish troops may be pulled out of the Congo.

Lemass sent Frank Aiken, minister for external affairs, to Katanga to investigate the situation. There was increasing anxiety here as reports continued of Irish troops being involved in heavy fighting with several casualties.

TO KEEP ORDER

The Katanga issue was expected to play a leading part in the campaign for national elections Oct. 4. The campaign opens today.

Lemass said Ireland's 1,000 soldiers in the Congo were not sent to the United Nations force "to impose any particular solution on the Congo. They were sent on the understanding that the function of the force would be to preserve order," he said.

REPORT AWAITED

But the premier said any decision on the future of the Irish troops would have to wait the report of Aiken and a UN statement requested by Ireland on the background of the Katanga fighting.

Nancy Rips Japan U.S. Eyes Esther

TOKYO (Reuters) — First onslaught of Typhoon Nancy lashed Japan's southern island Friday, leaving four persons dead, 11 missing and 48 injured. A Greek freighter with 29 aboard was adrift in the typhoon's centre.

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. scientists may make weather history against huge Hurricane Esther, now 1,000 miles away. They'll seed Esther with ice-producing chemicals, killing its heat energy and 130 miles-an-hour winds.

America Detonates Fallout-Free Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States resumed nuclear weapons tests after a 34½-month lapse yesterday with a low-power, fallout-free underground shot at the Nevada proving ground.

The shot signalled the beginning of a new phase of the free world's atomic arms race with Russia.

VAIN ATTEMPT

Experts said yesterday's test was designed to perfect small battlefield weapons against an enemy's troops rather than its cities. Among such weapons is the army's bazooka-like Davy Crockett, which had never been proof-tested.

It was the first U.S. atomic explosion since Oct. 30, 1958.

The U.S. has spent the years since then in a vain attempt to obtain an enforceable international ban against all nuclear weapons tests.

Britain Backs Blasts

LONDON (UPI) — The foreign office said last night that Britain "fully supports" the resumption of underground nuclear testing by the United States.

It said the U.S. "could obviously not ignore large scale resumption by the Russians of nuclear testing."

We Will Meet Force Kennedy Warns Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Friday the United States is "prepared to meet force with force" if necessary to save the freedom of West Berlin.

Power Suit Seen

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reports here Friday said British Columbia Power Corp. Ltd. plans a suit against the provincial government in connection with the takeover of its operating subsidiary, British Columbia Electric Co. Ltd.

The government took over B.C. Electric Aug. 1, setting a price of $38 on common shares, all held by the parent company.

CHOICE GIVEN

It also offered holders of preferred shares the choice of exchanging them for perpetual or 25-year provincial bonds.

The corporation must first seek a provincial government decree before it can take its case against the crown into court.

MEETING DENIED

A power corporation spokesman confirmed that B.C. Power is considering legal action but he denied that A. Bruce Robertson, chairman of the corporation board, had met with Premier Bennett seeking increased compensation for the B.C. Electric common stock.

The reports say the decision to sue is believed to have been made after discussion between Mr. Robertson and cabinet members over increased compensation broke down.

Replying to a plea from nonaligned countries for a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting to solve the mounting Berlin crisis, the president held the door open for a summit conference provided careful advance preparations show it would have "a reasonable chance of success."

MOST FORTHRIGHT

But "we do not intend to enter into negotiations under ultimatums or threats," he said.

The White House issued Kennedy's statement—his most forthright yet on U.S. flight-if-necessary determination—as the Big Four Western foreign ministers held the second round in a three-day Berlin strategy conference ending today.

MINISTERS MEET

Dean Rusk, Britain's Lord Home, France's Couve de Murville and West Germany's Von Brentano spent a total of 4½ hours in discussions at the state department morning and afternoon.

IN OCTOBER?

The Western policymakers were reported to have agreed that an East-West foreign ministers' conference on Berlin should be held in October or November should Rusk get promising results from his New York meeting next week with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

TO STAND PAT

But if Rusk gets no clur from Gromyko that the Communists will offer something the West can negotiate on, then the Western powers were described as prepared to stand fast on Berlin without East-West talks—some what may.

TO SET GROUNDWORK

If the East-West foreign ministers' conference does come about, this was seen as possibly setting the groundwork for a later meeting between Khrushchev and the Western government heads.

Informants said Couve de Murville retained France's coolness toward any hurry up approach to East-West negotiations but did not object to Rusk's sounding out of Gromyko on his own.

BERLIN DISCUSSED

Official sources said the Western policymakers concentrated on counter-measures to be taken against any further Communist move against West Berlin.

Bomb Sent To Adenauer

BONN, Germany (AP) — German security officials yesterday intercepted a bomb in a package addressed to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The government said the package contained an explosive wired to batteries. The bomb was rigged to detonate upon opening of the wrappings.

Arrest, Deportation Face East Germans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials reported yesterday that the United States has received information the East German Communist regime is planning "the arrest and mass deportation" of Germans living along the Communist side of the Berlin and East German boundaries.

Air Incidents Raise Tension In West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Concern rose yesterday over use of the vital Western airlines to Berlin after two West German fighters blundered into the city and Soviet MIG jets shadowed two U.S. commercial airliners.

Communist East Germany called the landing of the two West German F-84 jet fighters in the French sector Thursday "a monstrously provocative act." In a statement, the East Germans charged the two pilots were on a spying mission.

PROTEST FILED

At about the same time, the American airlines flying from Berlin to Hamburg were either shadowed or buzzed by Soviet MIG jet fighters. The United States filed a vigorous protest with the Soviet representative at the Berlin Air Safety Centre.

CAKE DISMISSED

The case of the two West German pilots, who said they lost their way on a training mission and landed at Tegel airport, also was discussed at the Air Safety Centre. This is one of the few remaining occupation establishments in which the Russians still co-operate.

After a three-hour meeting, an Allied officer said "there is nothing to worry about."

Teachers Won't Ask For More

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's teachers will not be seeking general salary increases this year and will not ask for more money to compensate for the longer school day, Kenneth Alchison, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, said Friday.

The federation does not set salary policy for teachers. Each local teachers' association determines its own demands.

"Teachers regard the present economic situation as a plateau period," Mr. Alchison said.

Trade Howls Get Results

LONDON (CP) — The Economist says the "loud cries" at the Commonwealth finance ministers conference in Accra over Britain's decision to apply for Common Market membership should be considered as "a preliminary to serious horse trading."

The London weekly adds "the loud cries of anguish have their part in setting the stage for the detailed bargaining ahead."

"When the Canadian ministers decide that Britain will find it against its own interest to join the Common Market, and shouldn't be tempted away because it would be unfair to the Commonwealth, their protests should be taken as a genuine move in raising their initial bargaining bid."

ACCRA (Reuters) — British treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd said Friday night Britain's entry into the Common Market depends on receiving guarantees in the interest of the Commonwealth.

War Scare Puts Families to Flight

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — A group of nuclear war scare refugees from the New York metropolitan area will begin their journey to California today as scheduled, despite the fact their chosen small town sanctuary has been dubbed a "prime target" by one civil defence official.

Alvin Bauman, spokesman of the group of 20 families, said they "knew all along" that a Titan intercontinental missile base was being built near Chico, Calif., the spot they picked to escape blast and fallout in case of nuclear attack.

"Of course, Chico would have been more attractive

from our point of view if it didn't have the Titan base," Bauman said. "We took it into consideration in our planning."

But Bauman said he disagreed with Ed Lewis, information director for the California disaster office, in his evaluation of Chico as a "prime target."

"It's all relative," Bauman said. "And relative to the New York area, Chico is safer."

Bauman said the 20 families included about 50 men, women and children. About five families will leave with him by car today for Chico and the rest will join them there later. They already have leased 12 homes in Chico.

Artists, teachers and businessmen are represented in the group. Bauman said "a few" of the refugees lean toward Zen Buddhism and have adopted certain dietary habits prescribed by the Japanese scholar Dr. George Oshawa.
